Governors At Odds Over Civil Rights

Southerners May Boycott Conference

Disputes Flare Over Medicare, Party Politics

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI) —The 54th annual governor's conference erupted into a North-South battle over civil rights Tuesday, with southerners threatening to withdraw from the meeting next year.

Controversies also arose over medical care for the aged and party politics as the conference climaxed its working sessions.

A deadlock in the resolutions committee threatened to force both the civil rights and medical care issues to the floor for settlement in open session. The committee approved a fence-straddling resolution on medical care and a bland resolution on civil rights, when there was pressure from many sides for both to be couched in strong language.

The civil rights resolution was said to be similar to a mild statement adopted last year without much protest from southern governors. But New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was expected to offer a strong civil rights amendment supported by nearly all of the Republicans.

Leads To Threat

It was the efforts by liberal Democrats and Republicans for a toughly worded stand that promoted the southern threat of withdrawal.

Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee told reporters that members of the Southern Governor's Conference were planning to discuss withdrawal at their regional conference in Miami, Fla., this September.

Ellington said that many southerners are weary of seeing the national conference turned into "a sideshow for political purposes."

In addition to this, there was a fight over medical care. Democratic governors had hoped to give President Kennedy a general endorsement for his program of financing medical care to the aged through Social Security.

But the resolution as it came out of the committee did not carry such an endorsement. The members could agree only on a generalized statement broad enough to cover all approaches to the problem.

Business Sessions End

The conference's business sessions wound up Tuesday at this central Pennsylvania resort in preparation for a trip to Philadelphia Wednesday to hear Kennedy speak. The President will deliver his July 4 address from Independence Hall.

Chairman of this year's conference was Republican Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire, who was slated to be succeeded by Gov. Albert D. Rosellini, a Washington Democrat.

Powell lashed out at his own party's leadership—calling for a "full-time" national GOP chairman and broader organization without public "show" sessions like that held on former President Eisenhower's farm at Gettysburg last Saturday.

'Frisco Plumbers To Get $7.55 Hour

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Wage and fringe increases totaling $2.22 in three years will give San Francisco area union plumbers an hourly wage rate of $7.55 an hour by July 1, 1965.

"This is believed to be the highest rate for plumbers and steam fitters in the country," Joseph Mazzola, business agent for Plumbers Local 38, said Tuesday.

The contract covers San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino counties. The present contract provides a $4.50 hourly wage plus 76 cents in fringe benefits.

Traffic Mounts As Nation Begins Midweek Holiday

Some States Take Special Precautions

By United Press International

Americans headed Tuesday for the beaches, the mountains, a favorite woodland retreat or the big city—almost anywhere but where they were—to celebrate Independence Day.

Early-bird fun-seekers took to the highways in throngs for the only mid-week holiday outing of the summer season.

Despite special precautions and unusual moves to keep the death toll down, the National Safety Council estimated that 110 to 150 persons would "celebrate" the Fourth of July by dying in accidents on crowded highways.

Motorists traveling busy U.S. 52 near New Palestine, Ind., were offered a striking reminder that death takes no holiday even on the occasion set aside to observe the birth of the nation.

To Erect Crosses

A group of Future Farmers of America fashioned more than 600 simple, white crosses and said they would erect one cross for each traffic fatality in the 30-hour holiday period beginning at 6 p.m. local time Tuesday.

"I wonder who this will be," one teen-aged youth said as he placed another cross in a waiting stack.

Pennsylvania State Police assigned a fleet of 11 cars with oversized speedometers mounted on their tops to patrol the highways. The "speedminder cruisers" gave motorists an opportunity to check their speed.

Indiana State Police formed "wolf packs" of police cruisers to prowl Hoosier highways. The packs were being guided to trouble areas by planes and helicopters.

Asks "Lights On"

The New York State Thruway asked motorists to drive with headlights on in daylight hours. Several states continued their "lights on" campaigns as safety reminders to approaching motorists.

Judges in city court in Topeka, Kan., said they would double the usual fine or jail term on conviction of a traffic offense.

Amid the safety warnings, Stan Keesling, safety director of the Automobile Club of Missouri, spoke up against "scare propaganda." He said it was frightening motorists off the highways during holiday periods and suggested that safety messages take a "positive note."

Doctors' Suit Claims Medical Plan Is Illegal

REGINA, Sask. (UPI) — Two physicians moved in court Tuesday to have Saskatchewan's new medicare plan ruled illegal as angry citizens worked on plans to march on the Capitol to protest the compulsory medical care program that has triggered a province-wide doctors strike.

The protest march was only one of the moves underway to force Socialist Provincial Premier Woodrow Lloyd to scuttle the program, which went into effect at midnight Saturday. Most of Saskatchewan's 900 doctors went on strike at the same time.

Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, president of the provincial college of physicians and surgeons and spokesman for the striking doctors, was reported preparing a statement in answer to a government demand Monday that the dispute be submitted to an impartial mediator.

The court action was taken by Dr. William Cranley of Prince Albert and Dr. Malcolm McDonald of Saskatoon. It obviously was a test case aimed at overturning the medical care program.

The doctors declared the medicare program was a conspiracy against their profession. They asked $20,000 in damages and a declaration by the court that the act was unconstitutional and illegal.

The strike has left more than 900,000 Saskatchewan residents with only emergency medical service and with only 34 of the province's 121 hospitals operating. Some doctors already have moved from the province, and others have said they will move soon whether the controversy is settled or not.

Hans Taal, vice president of a newly organized "keep our doctors" committee, announced the plans for the protest march against the Socialist government of Premier Lloyd.

He said carloads of angry residents would pour into Regina, the capital, from throughout the province. A caravan of at least 200 cars will come from Saskatoon alone, he said.

Court Takes Over In Apportion Row

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—In the first such action in American history, a federal court took full jurisdiction in a reapportionment dispute Tuesday and ordered a special master to supervise realignment of Wisconsin's political districts in conformance with the state constitution.

A panel of three federal judges, acting as the Republican-controlled Wisconsin Legislature fought bitterly to a deadlock with Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson, named former State Supreme Court Justice Emmert Wingert as special master.

It ordered the special master not only to investigate reapportionment measures which were dying in the legislature as the court acted, but "any further apportionment bills that may be passed."

Cuba Claims U.S. Jets Violate Air Space

HAVANA (UPI)—The government Tuesday claimed three more violations of Cuban air space by U.S. jet fighter planes and tied the "spy flights" to what was officially admitted to be a new anti-Castro campaign of "aggression and sabotage."

At the same time, official newspapers reported that "counter-revolutionaries" in Camaguey in central Cuba had attacked a bus, "executed" two militiamen passengers and burned the vehicle on the highway.

Ben Khedda Takes Helm, Urges Unity

Premier Receives Wild Welcome On Return To Algiers

ALGIERS (AP) — Nationalist Premier Ben Youssef ben Khedda returned Tuesday a few hours after independence in a race to forestall a left-wing guerrilla insurrection and by dusk the popular acclaim appeared to have made him master of Algiers.

The former guerrilla fighter asserted his leadership of the newborn nation and defied what he called the military dictatorship ambitions of dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed ben Bella.

About five hours after French President Charles de Gaulle proclaimed independence Ben Khedda arrived from Tunis to a thundering Moslem welcome.

Virtually every Moslem in Algiers was in the streets to greet the premier who announced his intention of crushing insurrection.

After his speech at the airport, he and his ministers were preceded into the heart of the city by several hundred tough, battle-hardened guerrillas from Algeria's green Kabylie Mountains.

Premier Calls For Unity

Ben Khedda and Vice Premier Belkacem Krim rode on a jeep crowded with guerrillas in camouflage uniforms. A sea of Algeria's new green and white flags waved everywhere.

Clearly referring to Ben Bella, who wants a radical social revolution in Algeria and opposes Ben Khedda's policy of cooperation with France, the premier in his address called for "unity against personal power, against men of ambition, against military adventures, demagogues and Fascists of all kinds." He warned against "anarchy of unfortunate local and private initiative."

Ben Bella has been accused of seeking a lone wolf role in the new Algeria. He has defiantly denounced the provisional government's dismissal of the commander of well-disciplined Algerian armies of some 45,000 men posed along borders in Tunisia and Morocco with Soviet bloc weapons. The commander was accused of plotting a military coup.

Civil War Threatens

The new nation, after 7½ years of war for independence and three months of European secret army terrorism, was threatened with a new round of bloodshed—civil war among the Moslems.

But the Ben Khedda regime took over the Moorish style, white-walled prefecture building on the waterfront where the French administered central Algerian regions.

Theoretically, the French formed Provisional Executive in nearby Rocher Noir was to administer Algeria until elections but few persons doubted that the Ben Khedda government was the real power in the new nation.

Sen. Mansfield Sees Medicare Plan's Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., Tuesday cautiously predicted Senate approval of the bipartisan compromise plan to provide certain medical care benefits for all of the nation's elder citizens.

At the same time, Mansfield noted that the Senate was taking up the proposal without sending it to committee, a sometimes risky procedure. He said only time would tell how the "bypassing of committees" would affect the final vote.

But Mansfield said after the weekly White House legislative meeting that he believed the bipartisan measure would draw enough votes from both parties to push it through "to a successful conclusions."

Five Republicans joined in sponsoring the compromise, introduced by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N. Mex., last Friday. Plans call for it to be attached as an amendment to a bill that would extend a variety of welfare programs.

No action was expected on the medical care plan before late this week and a final vote by the weekend seemed unlikely.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., who also attended the White House session, said the would decide what procedure to take on the proposal after the Senate acts.

The compromise retains the heart of President Kennedy's plan to provide health insurance through the Social Security system, an approach strongly opposed by the American Medical Association and a number of Republicans.

But a number of proposals, including the option of carrying private insurance partly paid for by the government, were written into the proposal in an effort to win wider support.

Senate Unit Moves To End Tax Stalemate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee, acting on word from the White House, moved Tuesday to break the stalemate that has tied up President Kennedy's controversial bill to impose withholding taxes on dividends and interest.

Chairman Harry S. Byrd, D-Va., said the bill would be taken up in closed session next Wednesday. There had been previous reports it would be set aside until after the committee took care of the Trade Expansion Act which was passed by the House last week. It has been in the committee for three months without action.

But it was understood the White House had sent word that it wanted the tax bill disposed of before the start of hearings on the trade bill.

Three Shriners Die During Huge Toronto Parade

TORONTO (AP)—Three Shriners marching in a parade collapsed Tuesday and died, saddening what was planned as a rollicking opening for the annual North American Shriners convention. Earlier, two other Shriners had died in hotel rooms.

Those who collapsed and died in the parade of 10,000 Shriners were identified as: William H. Lee, 65, of Philadelphia; Horace Wright, 73, of Webster, N.Y., and Paul Tichek, 50, of Lyons, Ill.

The deaths came during the first of two gigantic Shriner parades.

The temperature was a relatively mild 77 degrees.

The two who died in hotel rooms were Bryan Dowling, 63, of South Arlington, Va., and Dr. Bernard Prietsch, 59, of Pittsburgh. The coroner said heart attacks caused both deaths.

Girl Who Helped Kill Dad Paroled

BALTIMORE (AP) — Diane Thelma Burgess, sentenced to 18 years imprisonment as an accessory in the slaying of her father six years ago, has been paroled from the Maryland State Reformatory for Women.

Paul C. Wolman, chairman of the State Board of Parole and Probation, announced Tuesday that the board agreed unanimously that the girl had "reached a maximum stage of rehabilitation." He said prison authorities "highly recommended her release under parole supervision."

Miss Burgess was 15 when sentenced. She had admitted helping plan the murder of her father, Leonard H. Burgess, 36, by her boyfriend, Joseph T. Tromberi, also 15 at the time.

Burgess, a steam fitter, was found shot seven times on the doorstep of his home.

Miss Burgess, Tromberi and the girl's mother, Mrs. Thelma S. Burgess, then 33, each was sentenced to 18 years. A second youth, Walter Brauer, 17 at the time, was sentenced to four years.

Marines Begin Thai Exodus As Tension Eases

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—By plane and helicopter, 1,000 U.S. Marines sped their departure Tuesday from Thailand, where since May they have been guarding against Communist infiltration from Laos.

In neighboring Laos, acting Premier Prince Souphanouvong said he would like to see all American forces get out of Thailand because "Laos is not threatening anybody." He leads the pro-Communist guerrillas, whose sweep in northern Laos prompted Thailand to ask the United States to send in military forces.

In South Viet Nam, officials reported the flow of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas into the country had increased since the so-called neutralist coalition regime in Laos was established.

The Marines began pulling out Monday because of what Washington called a general lessening of tension along the Laotian frontier. Another 1,200 Marines and 3,000 army troops remain in Thailand. The U.S. Defense Department said more Marines might be withdrawn soon.

Informants said some Marines were being flown directly to land bases in the Philippines, Okinawa and Guam. Others were being taken by helicopter to units of the 7th Fleet standing off Thailand.

None of the departing Marines was destined for the United States. The U.S. Embassy emphasized they will be in a position to move back quickly if necessary.

Souphanouvong, heading the Laos government in the absence abroad of neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, told an interviewer in Vientiane that he questioned U.S. actions in both Thailand and Laos.

He criticized an American air drop of food and supplies to Meo tribesmen who have been fighting the Pathet Lao in the mountains, expressing suspicion the operation was a smoke screen for providing them with arms.

Oil Powerful Soviet Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators were told Tuesday that oil is the principal weapon of the Soviet economic offensive and in the last eight years has created a power monster.

"In a matter of another decade or two, it will have produced for the Soviet Union an industrial capability that could make economic vassals of Europe and Japan and that could undermine the security of the United States," Samuel Nakasian testified.

Nakasian, a New York lawyer specializing in foreign trade and investment, said the Soviet bloc is exporting increasing quantities of oil at cut-rate prices in return for equipment and materials needed to strengthen its industrial base.

He appeared before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee at a hearing conducted by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y.

Last Rebel Felon Quits Perch

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Life term convict Charles Cannen Miller, the last holdout among 13 rebel inmates who climbed to the prison's water tower to protest alleged "inhuman" treatment, descended into the arms of rain-drenched guards Tuesday at Western Correctional Institution.

He came down in a steady rain after being on the tower's 80-foot-high catwalk for nearly a week without appreciable food and water.

It was tormenting thirst and hunger that drove Miller's tower-sitting companions to the ground ahead of him.

The 32-year-old convicted murderer's surrender brought to an end the headline-catching protest that began a week ago Monday.

Prison authorities won out in their waiting game, just as they had predicted they would.

"When you prove a point you naturally feel rather good," said Warden James F. Maroney. "I think we proved our point. . .we waited. . .and they came down."

Miller left his catwalk perch at 5:55 a.m., EDT. Despite the rainfall—the first here of any note since June 13—a prison official said he was "a little thirsty, that's all." But he did appear to be suffering from hunger, fatigue and exposure as well. He was taken to the prison hospital for an examination.

The warden said the demonstrators would be given individual hearings for the purpose of setting punishment. Eventually all will be placed in the punitive confinement cellblock called "the hole" by inmates.

It was "the hole" that was the focal point of the water tower rebellion. When ringleader Robert Payne, 29, of Washington, D.C., broke from his guards and scampered up the tower eight days ago, he shouted to newsmen on rooftops of houses outside prison walls that he wanted an investigation into "cruel and inhuman" treatment.

The following evening, during a recreation period, 12 more convicts eluded club-carrying guards and scaled to the water tower catwalk in support of Payne.

Two Escaped Prisoners Give Up After Gun Battle

DENVER (UPI) —Two prisoners shot a guard in an escape from a prison bus Tuesday and held a woman and her seven children hostage while they engaged in a gun battle with officers in a suburban home. But a veteran sheriff talked them into surrendering.

The two, identified as Theodore Ruark, 25, and Charles W. Ferguson, 33, both convicted of robbery, were being transferred from the Denver County Jail to the Colorado State Penitentiary at Canon City in a bus with 25 other prisoners.

They attacked the guards in the suburban city of Aurora, Colo., and shot Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Gilletet, 24, of Thonton, Colo., in the hand.

Officers said they then stole a car at the escape location and drove it to a car lot in East Denver. The car was found abandoned there and another was taken.

Police said Ruark and Ferguson, armed with a gun taken from guards, drove south across Denver to suburban Englewood, Colo., where they burst into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rutledge.

Mrs. Rutledge and her children, Bobbie, 5, Betty Lou, 7, Sammy, 4, Ronnie, 3, Jimmy, 1, Paul, 9 and Sharon, 6 months, were eating lunch at the time. The two men held them hostage while a force of 40 to 50 officers surrounded the house.

The pair exchanged shots with the officers, then walked out glumly when veteran Arapahoe County Sheriff Charles Foster, 64, persuaded them to surrender.

Playmate, 12, Admits Fatally Stabbing Girl

SILVERDALE, Pa. (AP)—The body of Theresa Chaill, 10, was found Tuesday in a wooded area of this Bucks County community. State police said a playmate, Charles Clarkson Jr., 12, told them he stabbed the girl late Monday.

The body, which bore stab wounds, was found on the edge of a glider field.

Police said Clarkson told them he and Theresa had quarreled over some kittens and that she hit him with a stone.

Then, they quoted the boy, he stabbed her several times and hid the body under brush.

16-Year-Old Boy Held For Killing His Stepfather

BALTIMORE (UPI)—A 16-year-old youth was discovered sleeping in an auto at a parking lot Tuesday after allegedly stabbing his stepfather to death and wounding his mother in their Alexandria, Va., home.

The suspect, William Bodmer, was found in his stepfather's car by a Baltimore policeman who only minutes before had heard an alarm broadcast for him. The officer said Bodmer's clothing was splattered with blood.

Also charged with murder in the slaying was Bodmer's chum, 19-year-old Malcolm Leon Ward.

The youths were accused of killing Donald G. Cooley, 50, a government affairs teacher in the Mount Vernon High School in Alexandria, and wounding his wife of 11 years, Katherine, who teaches English in the same school.

Police said Bodmer, apparently angry because of disciplinary measures by his stepfather, stabbed Cooley several times in the chest as the man dozed in a chair Monday night. They said Bodmer stabbed his mother when she rushed into the room to see what was wrong.

According to police, the dispute appeared to have involved the parents' refusal to let the son use the family car.

Alexandria police said Ward admitted shooting Cooley in the stomach with a .22-caliber rifle after Bodmer had stabbed him with an ice pick and a butcher knife. They said Ward told them the rifle "just went off."

Baltimore police said Bodmer told them he had intended to drive to Ocean City, Md., a beach resort town, but lost his way in Baltimore. He pulled his car into a gas station parking lot to sleep until daybreak.

Mrs. Cooley was said to be in satisfactory condition in a hospital.

Senate Unit Moves To End Tax Stalemate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee, acting on word from the White House, moved Tuesday to break the stalemate that has tied up President Kennedy's controversial bill to impose withholding taxes on dividends and interest.

Chairman Harry S. Byrd, D-Va., said the bill would be taken up in closed session next Wednesday. There had been previous reports it would be set aside until after the committee took care of the Trade Expansion Act which was passed by the House last week. It has been in the committee for three months without action.

But it was understood the White House had sent word that it wanted the tax bill disposed of before the start of hearings on the trade bill.

Three Shriners Die During Huge Toronto Parade

TORONTO (AP)—Three Shriners marching in a parade collapsed Tuesday and died, saddening what was planned as a rollicking opening for the annual North American Shriners convention. Earlier, two other Shriners had died in hotel rooms.

Those who collapsed and died in the parade of 10,000 Shriners were identified as: William H. Lee, 65, of Philadelphia; Horace Wright, 73, of Webster, N.Y., and Paul Tichek, 50, of Lyons, Ill.

The deaths came during the first of two gigantic Shriner parades.

The temperature was a relatively mild 77 degrees.

The two who died in hotel rooms were Bryan Dowling, 63, of South Arlington, Va., and Dr. Bernard Prietsch, 59, of Pittsburgh. The coroner said heart attacks caused both deaths.

Girl Who Helped Kill Dad Paroled

BALTIMORE (AP) — Diane Thelma Burgess, sentenced to 18 years imprisonment as an accessory in the slaying of her father six years ago, has been paroled from the Maryland State Reformatory for Women.

Paul C. Wolman, chairman of the State Board of Parole and Probation, announced Tuesday that the board agreed unanimously that the girl had "reached a maximum stage of rehabilitation." He said prison authorities "highly recommended her release under parole supervision."

Miss Burgess was 15 when sentenced. She had admitted helping plan the murder of her father, Leonard H. Burgess, 36, by her boyfriend, Joseph T. Tromberi, also 15 at the time.

Burgess, a steam fitter, was found shot seven times on the doorstep of his home.

Miss Burgess, Tromberi and the girl's mother, Mrs. Thelma S. Burgess, then 33, each was sentenced to 18 years. A second youth, Walter Brauer, 17 at the time, was sentenced to four years.

Marines Begin Thai Exodus As Tension Eases

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—By plane and helicopter, 1,000 U.S. Marines sped their departure Tuesday from Thailand, where since May they have been guarding against Communist infiltration from Laos.

In neighboring Laos, acting Premier Prince Souphanouvong said he would like to see all American forces get out of Thailand because "Laos is not threatening anybody." He leads the pro-Communist guerrillas, whose sweep in northern Laos prompted Thailand to ask the United States to send in military forces.

In South Viet Nam, officials reported the flow of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas into the country had increased since the so-called neutralist coalition regime in Laos was established.

The Marines began pulling out Monday because of what Washington called a general lessening of tension along the Laotian frontier. Another 1,200 Marines and 3,000 army troops remain in Thailand. The U.S. Defense Department said more Marines might be withdrawn soon.

Informants said some Marines were being flown directly to land bases in the Philippines, Okinawa and Guam. Others were being taken by helicopter to units of the 7th Fleet standing off Thailand.

None of the departing Marines was destined for the United States. The U.S. Embassy emphasized they will be in a position to move back quickly if necessary.

Souphanouvong, heading the Laos government in the absence abroad of neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, told an interviewer in Vientiane that he questioned U.S. actions in both Thailand and Laos.

He criticized an American air drop of food and supplies to Meo tribesmen who have been fighting the Pathet Lao in the mountains, expressing suspicion the operation was a smoke screen for providing them with arms.

Last Rebel Felon Quits Perch

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Life term convict Charles Cannen Miller, the last holdout among 13 rebel inmates who climbed to the prison's water tower to protest alleged "inhuman" treatment, descended into the arms of rain-drenched guards Tuesday at Western Correctional Institution.

He came down in a steady rain after being on the tower's 80-foot-high catwalk for nearly a week without appreciable food and water.

It was tormenting thirst and hunger that drove Miller's tower-sitting companions to the ground ahead of him.

The 32-year-old convicted murderer's surrender brought to an end the headline-catching protest that began a week ago Monday.

Prison authorities won out in their waiting game, just as they had predicted they would.

"When you prove a point you naturally feel rather good," said Warden James F. Maroney. "I think we proved our point. . .we waited. . .and they came down."

Miller left his catwalk perch at 5:55 a.m., EDT. Despite the rainfall—the first here of any note since June 13—a prison official said he was "a little thirsty, that's all." But he did appear to be suffering from hunger, fatigue and exposure as well. He was taken to the prison hospital for an examination.

The warden said the demonstrators would be given individual hearings for the purpose of setting punishment. Eventually all will be placed in the punitive confinement cellblock called "the hole" by inmates.

It was "the hole" that was the focal point of the water tower rebellion. When ringleader Robert Payne, 29, of Washington, D.C., broke from his guards and scampered up the tower eight days ago, he shouted to newsmen on rooftops of houses outside prison walls that he wanted an investigation into "cruel and inhuman" treatment.

The following evening,during a recreation period, 12 more convicts eluded club-carrying guards and scaled to the water tower catwalk in support of Payne.

Two Escaped Prisoners Give Up After Gun Battle

DENVER (UPI) —Two prisoners shot a guard in an escape from a prison bus Tuesday and held a woman and her seven children hostage while they engaged in a gun battle with officers in a suburban home. But a veteran sheriff talked them into surrendering.

The two, identified as Theodore Ruark, 25, and Charles W. Ferguson, 33, both convicted of robbery, were being transferred from the Denver County Jail to the Colorado State Penitentiary at Canon City in a bus with 25 other prisoners.

They attacked the guards in the suburban city of Aurora, Colo., and shot Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Gilletet, 24, of Thonton, Colo., in the hand.

Officers said they then stole a car at the escape location and drove it to a car lot in East Denver. The car was found abandoned there and another was taken.

Police said Ruark and Ferguson, armed with a gun taken from guards, drove south across Denver to suburban Englewood, Colo., where they burst into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rutledge.

Mrs. Rutledge and her children, Bobbie, 5, Betty Lou, 7, Sammy, 4, Ronnie, 3, Jimmy, 1, Paul, 9 and Sharon, 6 months, were eating lunch at the time. The two men held them hostage while a force of 40 to 50 officers surrounded the house.

The pair exchanged shots with the officers, then walked out glumly when veteran Arapahoe County Sheriff Charles Foster, 64, persuaded them to surrender.

Ben Khedda Takes Helm, Urges Unity

Premier Receives Wild Welcome On Return To Algiers

ALGIERS (AP) — Nationalist Premier Ben Youssef ben Khedda returned Tuesday a few hours after independence in a race to forestall a left-wing guerrilla insurrection and by dusk the popular acclaim appeared to have made him master of Algiers.

The former guerrilla fighter asserted his leadership of the newborn nation and defied what he called the military dictatorship ambitions of dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed ben Bella.

About five hours after French President Charles de Gaulle proclaimed independence Ben Khedda arrived from Tunis to a thundering Moslem welcome.

Virtually every Moslem in Algiers was in the streets to greet the premier who announced his intention of crushing insurrection.

After his speech at the airport, he and his ministers were preceded into the heart of the city by several hundred tough, battle-hardened guerrillas from Algeria's green Kabylie Mountains.

Premier Calls For Unity

Ben Khedda and Vice Premier Belkacem Krim rode on a jeep crowded with guerrillas in camouflage uniforms. A sea of Algeria's new green and white flags waved everywhere.

Clearly referring to Ben Bella, who wants a radical social revolution in Algeria and opposes Ben Khedda's policy of cooperation with France, the premier in his address called for "unity against personal power, against men of ambition, against military adventures, demagogues and Fascists of all kinds." He warned against "anarchy of unfortunate local and private initiative."

Ben Bella has been accused of seeking a lone wolf role in the new Algeria. He has defiantly denounced the provisional government's dismissal of the commander of well-disciplined Algerian armies of some 45,000 men posed along borders in Tunisia and Morocco with Soviet bloc weapons. The commander was accused of plotting a military coup.

Civil War Threatens

The new nation, after 7½ years of war for independence and three months of European secret army terrorism, was threatened with a new round of bloodshed—civil war among the Moslems.

But the Ben Khedda regime took over the Moorish style, white-walled prefecture building on the waterfront where the French administered central Algerian regions.

Theoretically, the French formed Provisional Executive in nearby Rocher Noir was to administer Algeria until elections but few persons doubted that the Ben Khedda government was the real power in the new nation.

Oil Powerful Soviet Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators were told Tuesday that oil is the principal weapon of the Soviet economic offensive and in the last eight years has created a power monster.

"In a matter of another decade or two, it will have produced for the Soviet Union an industrial capability that could make economic vassals of Europe and Japan and that could undermine the security of the United States," Samuel Nakasian testified.

Nakasian, a New York lawyer specializing in foreign trade and investment, said the Soviet bloc is exporting increasing quantities of oil at cut-rate prices in return for equipment and materials needed to strengthen its industrial base.

He appeared before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee at a hearing conducted by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y.

Playmate, 12, Admits Fatally Stabbing Girl

SILVERDALE, Pa. (AP)—The body of Theresa Chaill, 10, was found Tuesday in a wooded area of this Bucks County community. State police said a playmate, Charles Clarkson Jr., 12, told them he stabbed the girl late Monday.

The body, which bore stab wounds, was found on the edge of a glider field.

Police said Clarkson told them he and Theresa had quarreled over some kittens and that she hit him with a stone.

Then, they quoted the boy, he stabbed her several times and hid the body under brush.

Rail Heads Call For Speed In Mergers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heads of three major railroads said Tuesday mergers must come quickly to provide more efficient rail service and head off mass bankruptcy.

Mass bankruptcy, they told the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, would be a step toward creating the greatest monopoly of all — nationalized railroads.

James M. Symes, board chairman of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Leonard H. Murray, president of the Soo Line, and Jervis Langdon Jr., president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, joined in opposition to a bill by subcommittee Chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said the bill would have the effect of creating an 18-month freeze on all mergers.

Kefauver said it would only block mergers which would tend to lessen competition and create a monopoly.

Symes said the proposed merger of Pennsylvania with the New York Central would strengthen competition but it probably would take several years to prove it under the terms of Kefauver's bill.

"Other modes of transportation are the real competitive factor in railroads today," he said. "We need to be healthy in order to compete.

Murray, whose line was created in 1960 by a three-way merger, said he felt the merger had made it possible for the three lines to give better service and compete more effectively with other means of transportation.

Langdon, whose railroad is seeking to merge with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, said approval of mergers is vital if the railroad industry is to remain under private ownership.

"The future well-being and prosperity of the Baltimore and Ohio as an important eastern system may well be contingent upon prompt affiliation with the Chesapeake and Ohio," he added, in prepared testimony.

Kefauver said the delay provided in his bill was merely to permit the ICC to take a longer look at proposed mergers.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Arrangements were made Monday for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange seat for $160,000, up $20,000 from the last previous sale.

Black Muslims Receive Court Recognition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Black Muslims have been recognized by a federal court as a religious group.

The decision by U.S. District Judge Burnita S. Mathews Monday is believed to be the first time the sect has been so recognized by a court.

The black muslims believe in Negro superiority. The sect's supreme being is Allah.

The decision stemmed from a case involving William T. X. Fulwood, a prisoner in Lorton Reformatory, a District of Columbia institution in Virginia.

Fulwood had contended that the D.C. Department of Corrections had discriminated against him by not permitting him to hold religious services at Lorton.

The department's contention was that the Black Muslims preach hatred of the white race, thus creating dissension among other inmates at Lorton.

Judge Matthews, in determining that the Muslim faith is a religion, declined to consider the "merits or fallacies of the religion, however excellent or fanatical or preposterous it may be."

"It is sufficient here to say that one concept of religion calls for belief in the existence of a supreme being controlling the existence of man," she said. "That concept of religion is met by the Muslims in that they believe in Allah, as a supreme being and as the one true God."

High Accident Rate Hikes Insurance Cost

BALTIMORE (AP) — An official of an insurance organization says the increased automobile insurance rates in Maryland can be attributed largely to the state's high accident rate.

H. Riall Jackson, president of the Association of Insurance Underwriters of Baltimore, said in a statement Tuesday the higher costs of repairing the stylishly designed new cars is another major factor in the rate increase.

Jackson said Maryland is the fourth highest state in frequency of damage claims. He said owners of one of every 10 insured cars in the state were paid damage claims during the past three years.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — It wasn't a blessed event Harry West was pushing down the street at the time of his arrest.

Larrimore was elected to the House in 1958 but lost his bid for Democratic renomination in last May's primary election.

SALISBURY (AP) — Radio-Television Station WBOC of Salisbury announced Tuesday it has sold its community television antenna operation to General Television Inc. of Denver, Colo.

The announcement by Ewell K. Jett, executive vice president of WBOC, did not disclose the price of the sale of Peninsula Community Antenna Television Co. Inc. WBOC is a subsidiary of the Baltimore Sunpapers.

RANDALLSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Leon Enfield, president of a Maryland Farm Bureau youth organization, says "American heritage needs to be put back into our independence celebration."

Enfield heads a group of young Maryland farmers known as Associated Young People."

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore police are searching for a youth in a white car who has been selling firecrackers to children.

Officers said one customer, a 12-year-old boy, lost a forefinger during the weekend when a firecracker blew up in his hand. City ordinances prohibit the possession or sale of firecrackers.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The death of a Baltimore man Tuesday increased Maryland's highway fatality toll for the year to 254, up 49 from the corresponding time a year ago.

Michael Nozeika, 26, was killed when he lost control of his car and it struck a utility pole. His death occurred well before the 6 p.m. start of the holiday period.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, long closed to tourists on legal holidays, will be open Wednesday for twice the usual time.

Visitors may tour the mansion between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Regular tourist hours on weekdays are from 10 a.m. until noon.

Effective on July 1, 1962, this Bank increased its annual interest rate on Savings Accounts to 3½%.

It should be pointed out that such a rate becomes the fixed obligation of the Bank. It is not an "anticipated rate" nor a "dividend" which may be paid only "if and when" actually earned. It is an interest rate, as determined by the Bank's Board of Directors.

Most people save money either for a specific purpose or for "a rainy day." When they want their funds, they want to be sure of being able to get them. Availability is of primary importance. In an insured commercial bank — unlike most types of savings institutions — you can be sure of getting your money when you want it.

More vital than any other consideration is that of safety of your funds. Deposits in this Bank are backed by 97 years of continuous operations and growth and insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

When choosing a place for their savings, smart savers consider first of all, the safety of their money, secondly their ability to withdraw it any time they please, and only thirdly the rate of return that is paid to them.

Civilian Technology Held Key To Power

NEW YORK (UPI)—Technology is likely to bring the delicate East-West power balance out from under a "nuclear umbrella" and cause a new alignment of power in the world, in the opinion of a Columbia University expert on international relations.

Dr. Victor Basiuk, research associate at Columbia's Institute of War and Peace Studies, believes the kind of technology which will create electricity from seaweed and make sea water fresh for human and agricultural consumption has more destiny-shaping potential than bigger hydrogen bombs or longer-range missiles.

Basiuk, a former Navy officer, said technology enabled the United States to become the most powerful nation on earth following World War II. Technology subsequently caused America's relative power to decline and the Soviet Union's to rise, he said.

The United States has the economic - technological potential to reverse that trend, Basiuk contends. By using that potential to assist other free nations, he said, it would be possible for America to "mold the rest of the world in a way that would be advantageous to our long-range security.

Basiuk, author of a forthcoming book on the relationship of technology and the power position of states, said the United States and Russia live under a "nuclear umbrella"—an armed standoff stabilized by the knowledge that a nuclear war would be mutually disastrous.

"It is essential that this country make certain the nuclear umbrella remains stable," Basiuk said. "Should the Soviet Union develop an anti-missile missile before the United States does, that would mean a victory for the Communist world."

Basiuk believes non - military technology to be the potentially most fruitful in shaping the world's future power alignment.

"Our basic problem," Basiuk said, "is to pay adequate attention to underdeveloped nations." He said future power centers will develop from these countries and the United States should nurse them through their development and prevent them from becoming security threats in the future.

"We must make sure they have the same values as we have," Basiuk said. "It is not necessary that they be aligned with us."

Basiuk said the United States has a great advantage in civilian technology over the power-oriented Soviet Union.

"Our advantage over the Soviet Union is that whatever technological resources they have, they use them directly for (military) power. They cannot compete with us in total impact if the force of our civilian technology is brought to bear," Basiuk said.

He recommended that the United States apply its scientific knowhow to new products and new industries which will help our domestic economy grow and at the same time satisfy the needs of underdeveloped countries.

He cited distillization of sea water, harnessing of solar energy and production of electricity from bacteria acting on sea weed as areas where such technology might be applied.

NASA Orders Rocket Engines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Space Agency Monday placed its first orders for the powerful rocket engines which will propel American astronauts to the moon.

The engines are the F-1, which burns kerosene and liquid oxygen and develops 1.5 million pounds of thrust, and the J-2, which burns liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen and generates 200,000 pounds of thrust.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) ordered 55 F-1 and 59 J-2 engines from the Rocketdyne Division, of North American Aviation, Inc.

An agency spokesman said this means the program to land men on the moon before 1970 is "right on schedule."

Both engines have been in the research and development phase for some time. Now they will go into production. NASA gave Rocketdyne three contracts totaling $289 million.

Broadcasts Indicate Rebirth Of Cuban Underground

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
UPI Latin American News Editor

The Cuban underground, dormant since the abortive Pigs Bay invasion of 1961, appeared Monday to have successfully rebuilt itself into a new and effective resistance group.

Debut of a secret central transmitter within Cuba indicated rebirth of the early organized resistance campaign to the Fidel Castro regime.

Radio monitors throughout southern Florida reported the shortwave station, which they placed somewhere between greater Havana and Matanzas, broadcasts simple coded messages on schedule to at least three organized guerrilla bands.

They were identified only as "Libertad," "Democracia" and "Blanco." The 30-minute transmissions were heard periodically between 8 p.m. and midnight. The variance of frequences used indicated a wide-based resistance movement.

The coded messages apparently referred to organizational matters. They listed contact and pick-up instructions for the underground.

Castro recognition of the "new punch" in the underground resistance movement was seen in a Havana dispatch Monday which reported the government had ordered a house-to-house canvass by so-called big brother neighborhood spy committees.

Castro claims 500,000 members of such committees.

The government statement said the canvass was being carried out to permit the issuance of "new rationing booklets." However, sabotage has risen sharply in recent weeks in the Havana-Matanzas area, as well as in easternmost Oriente province.

The coronation of the present Duke of Winsdor as king of Great Britain never took place.

Ordinary Woman In Paris Becoming A Fashion Plate

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI)—You can see the latest fashion show in Paris just by standing on a street corner and watching the shopgirls go by.

Thanks to a revolution in the ready-to-wear garment business in France, the ordinary female is becoming a fashion plate, too.

Formerly it was the royalty and rich who set the Paris styles. They bought custom-made original designs at designers' salons such as Balmain and Dior.

The ordinary housewife or working girl went to the famous "Little French Dressmaker" — if she could afford even $30 for a dress or $50 for a suit. Otherwise she bought badly styled cheap ready-made clothes at department stores.

In recent years, the economic boom in Frane an influence of American ready-to-wear clothes clothes has brought Paris fashion to the masses.

By now France has factory-made clothes with style as well as low price tags. Even "Prisunic," a dime-store chain, has a line of clothes that has Paris chic but low price tags—$5 to $15 for summer cotton dresses in high-fashion colors that can hold their own next to Balenciago and Heim.

The most popular spring fashion for the average Miss Paris is a "Chanel" suit. You pay from $500 up for the real thing at Chanel's. But every inexpensive shop window in Paris displays copies, right down to chains dangling from the pockets. Chanel copies sell for as low as $15, some with braided edges as on real Chanel suits.

Duplicates of Chanel blouses with "pussy cat bows" can be worn by every secretary now who has $5.

Miss Paris almost always wears fragile-looking pointed toe shoes with high heels. She carries a handbag of soft, shiny leather called a "manniquin bag" — big enough to carry her lunch. Instead of a hat, she fixes her hair in a bouffant "beehive" hairdo, with a leather or fabric headband or little black velvet bows.

The only hat popular now is the checked visor cap worn on the back of the head.

The clothes revolution has forced the high-fashion designers to revolutionize their business, too. Now most of the big coutouriers, including Heim and Dior, have "boutiques" with ready-to-wear clothes.

Pierre Cardin, another top designer, dropped a bombshell last winter by selling a line of ready-made medium priced clothes to a big Paris department store.

To the French, this was as if Maxim's restaurant opened a cafeteria for just anybody.

Club Women To Stress GFWC Teaching Program

Both the First District and Woman's Civic Club of Cumberland will continue the present program, Mrs. Albert D. Heacox and Mrs. Benjamin R. Lewis Jr., respective presidents, report. But emphasis will be placed on the teaching program, which Mrs. Dexter O. Arnold, new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs plans to inaugurate.

Following her election and installation at the 71st annual convention of the GFWC held at the Sheraton Park Hotel, June 25-29, Mrs. Arnold is launching a unique teaching program in eight nations around the globe, providing some 6,000 teachers and educational kits to teach reading and writing to the natives of eight countries in a move to eliminate "illiteracy from the face of the world." In about six months the schools will be established and Mrs. Arnold expects to visit each country for an on-the-spot view. This travel will take her to Hong Kong, Guatemala, Costa Rica, India, Mexico, Pakistan, Turkey and Iran where the schools will be held.

A former school teacher herself, Mrs. Arnold is a graduate of Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y., and served for several years as director of speech and dramatics in the schools there.

Although she has won compliments and cooperation from the government and volunteer organizations on her literary program, Mrs. Arnold stressed that the program will have no government aid financially, but is to be done by donations from the GFWC and its members, she said.

Mrs. Heacox, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. William A. Douglas, past state president, attended the convention from here. Six members represented the district.

Of the 6,000 women registered at the convention, there were 1,500 delegates, with 39 from foreign countries.

The First District GFWC meeting will be held at Peter Pan Inn, Urbana, October 10, with Mrs. Heacox presiding. It will be preceded by a workshop.

A buffet supper will be held today from 5:30 until 8 p.m., at the Cumberland Country Club.

Meeting Postponed

Due to the holiday, the Valley Road Homemakers Club has postponed the meeting from today until Monday. It will be at the home of Mrs. Rufus Nave, 913 Bedford Street, beginning at 11 a. m. Members are to bring a sandwich, the hostess will furnish the beverage. Mrs. C. A. Griffith and Mrs. James Ruppert will give the RWSC delegate reports. Mrs. H. T. Humphreys will preside.

DOLLAR VALUE— PLUS

In an emergency, the value of medicine can hardly be reckoned in dollars. Medicine is priceless when needed.

Yet it is an interesting fact that nationally the average cost of a pharmaceutical prescription is about $2.50 — and more than half of all prescriptions cost less than $2.00. Although higher than 20 years ago, the increase in the cost of medicine lags far behind that of other, and less essential, commodities.

When you purchase a prescription, you are sharing in the fruits of scientific research. You are getting today's best buy.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Happy Fourth of July to you.

Legal or not, baby-faced young actress Carol Lynley set off a little firecracker of her own and comes up with the role of Jimmy Stewart's daughter in "Take Her, She's Mine."

Having just had a baby with the necessary time out, Carol thought her career needed a little boost. So she did a bit of horsetrading at 20th Century-Fox.

Her deal was, "Give me the role in 'Take Her, She's Mine' — and I'll do this much smaller part in 'A Woman in July'." So that's how the clever miss gets this plum part with Jimmy Stewart in Frank McCarthy's movie of the stage hit.

The meeting the gossips have been waiting for—between Dean Martin and Lee Remick—took place at John Foreman's party. At first there was silence. Then a polite "hello" dripping with chill. But before the evening was over, Dean was doing card tricks for the girl he thumbed down as his co-star in "Something's Got to Give."

Among the ill-at-ease guests who were very glad that "something gave" between Lee and Dean before the evening was over were the Kirk Douglases, Judy and Tony Franciosa, Henry Fonda, the Phil Silvers and Polly Bergen and Freddie Fields. In a short time, Lee is off to England for her London film.

There's much concern in Paris over the condition of Francoise Sagan, whose novels a decade ago ("Bonjour Tristesse" and "That Certain Smile") were considered quite shocking. Francoise is in Paris Hospital after giving birth to a five pound premature baby last week. She is married to American ceramics artist, Bob Westhoff.

Frequently dubbed a beatnik intellectual, Francoise created such a stir with her first sexy books, most of which became films, that it is almost quaint to look back on her fame since the scorchers that have since been printed. Francoise has many friends in Hollywood who wish her speedy recovery.

Famed Washington, D.C., psychiatrist Dr. Frank Caprio, his wife and two teenage boys are visiting us and no fans were ever more delighted with the charms of our town. The doctor and his wife are the "originals" of "I Married a Psychiatrist" which Harriet Parsons will bring to the screen. The amusing book was written by Mrs. Caprio under her maiden name of Louise Pfeister as told to Frances Spatz Leighton, Washington editor of American Weekly.

Mrs. Caprio couldn't be more delighted that Judy Holliday has been selected to play her on the screen and the doctor is equally pleased with the selection of Robert Preston. The popular couple has been delightfully entertained by Richard Morris who wrote the screenplay and by producer Parsons.

I doubt very much if Janet Leigh will turn down "The Pink Panther" (that's a rare jewel, not an alcoholic delight, chums) with David Niven. It's a light, bright adventure yarn by Blake Edwards and Maurice Richlin which Marty Jurow will produce. But the real bait for Janet is that it will be made in Paris, Rome, Switzerland and the south of France — a dazzling variety of settings for a restless lady.

Every time an actor signs for a Walt Disney movie he just knows he's going to be in a hit. If any producer ever had the magic formula it's Mr. D. So, Brian Keith, Tommy Kirk and Kevin Corcoran can start patting themselves on the back now that they have been set for "Savage Sam," a sequel to "Old Yeller", by the same author, Fred Gipson. Starting date is Aug. 6.

Disney's co-producer is Bill Anderson and the director is Norman Tokar who did "Big Red" for Walt.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hildegarde Neff cables Louella Parsons that she wants her to be the first to know that she married David Cameron in Starnberg, Germany, last Saturday.

Bob Evans' date, his first night in town, was Annette Cash who used to date Frank Sinatra before moving on to Eddie Fisher.

Speaking of Eddie and Frank, they proved their close friendship when Frank became ill at Lake Tahoe and Eddie flew up to fill in for Sinatra at Cal-Neva Lodge.

How come Danny Kaye gets all the actors who have fixations against flying? Having "cured" Tony Curtis of his terror of taking to the air, Danny has now inherited Cara Williams, who has the same problem, since she joined the cast of his "Man From the Diner's Club" movie.

When they start dining family style—look out. Diane McBain gave a birthday party for her mother at Edna Earle's Fogcutter Cafe and she asked good-looking Bob Singer, of NBC, to join them.

Shelley Winters late suppering at Sardi's in New York with Abby Mann after her performance in "Night of the Iguana" could have been business.

Marge and Gower Champion have been in New York but he's due back on the coast for final editing on "My Six Loves"—and Marge wants to toss a baby shower for Gower's star, Debbie Reynolds.

NAAC Meeting

The regular meeting of the local chapter of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People has been postponed until Tuesday, July 10, at 8:30 p. m., it was announced by James F. Hurt, president. The meeting originally was set for today.

Copper Demand Drops

NEW YORK (UPI) — Demand for copper for July shipment is slower than in recent weeks, producers and smelters said Monday. However, stocks are low and the U.S. price for refined copper is holding firm at 31 cents a pound.

Loflin Ends Navy Service; Kehoe Successor

LCDR James W. Kehoe, USN, has been named Bureau of Naval Weapons Branch representative at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory Navy Office.

He succeeds LCDR Eugene P. Loflin, USN, who was retired from the Navy June 30.

LCDR Kehoe had been assistant branch representative here since he was assigned to the Navy Office in August of last year.

Before coming to ABL, he served two years as operations officer aboard the Navy destroyer, USS Rush (DDR 714) of the Atlantic Fleet. Prior to his assignment aboard the Rush, he was a weapons employment instructor at the Nuclear Weapons Training Center in San Diego, Calif. for two years.

A native of Newport, R. I., LCDR Kehoe is a 1952 graduate of Stonehill College, North Easton, Mass., with a B. S. degree in mathematics. In 1959 he earned his masters degree in education at San Diego State College.

From 1952 to 1955 LCDR Kehoe was assigned as nuclear weapons supervisor of the Special Weapons Assembly Team aboard two aircraft carriers, the USS Wasp and the USS Kersarge, of the Pacific Fleet.

In 1955 he began two years of duty as a nuclear intelligence officer with the Central Intelligence Agency in Washington, after which he was assigned to the Nuclear Weapons Training Center in San Diego.

LCDR Kehoe and his wife, Elizabeth, have four children, and they reside in Cumberland.

LCDR Loflin has been senior resident representative for the Bureau of Naval Weapons at ABL since March of 1958. He has accepted a position as senior technical assistant in the Polaris Department of Hercules Powder Company's Bacchus, Utah plant, and will leave his LaVale home July 10 for his new post.

A native of Denton, N. C., LCDR Loflin enlisted in the Navy on June 6, 1932. During his 30 years in the Navy, he has held all the enlisted personnel ratings from apprentice seaman to chief firecontrolman and was appointed warrant gunnery officer on June 25, 1942.

On October 15, 1943, he was commissioned an ensign and was promoted through commissioned ranks to lieutenant commander on July 1, 1954.

During his Navy career, LCDR Loflin attended numerous Navy schools, including rangefinder and optical school, primary and advanced firecontrol, gunnery officer's ordnance school and several other schools in the firecontrol and ordnance fields.

While LCDR Loflin served aboard the USS New Mexico in the South Pacific, his ship participated in the Gilbert Islands Operation, occupation of Kwajalein and Majuro Atolls, and the capture and occupation of Guam and Saipan.

These battles, along with duty on the USS New Mexico during its Alaskan Campaign and the occupation of Attu Island, earned him the Asiatic Pacific Medal with five battle stars.

Following the war, LCDR Loflin held various posts and was assigned to head the ABL Navy office in 1958.

LCDR Loflin is married to the former Ruby F. Moore of Bear Creek, N. C. LCDR and Mrs. Loflin have a son, Steven, 11, and a daughter, Gayle, 7.

Loflin Ends Navy Service; Kehoe Successor

LCDR James W. Kehoe, USN, has been named Bureau of Naval Weapons Branch representative at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory Navy Office.

He succeeds LCDR Eugene P. Loflin, USN, who was retired from the Navy June 30.

LCDR Kehoe had been assistant branch representative here since he was assigned to the Navy Office in August of last year.

Before coming to ABL, he served two years as operations officer aboard the Navy destroyer, USS Rush (DDR 714) of the Atlantic Fleet. Prior to his assignment aboard the Rush, he was a weapons employment instructor at the Nuclear Weapons Training Center in San Diego, Calif. for two years.

A native of Newport, R. I., LCDR Kehoe is a 1952 graduate of Stonehill College, North Easton, Mass., with a B. S. degree in mathematics. In 1959 he earned his masters degree in education at San Diego State College.

From 1952 to 1955 LCDR Kehoe was assigned as nuclear weapons supervisor of the Special Weapons Assembly Team aboard two aircraft carriers, the USS Wasp and the USS Kersarge, of the Pacific Fleet.

In 1955 he began two years of duty as a nuclear intelligence officer with the Central Intelligence Agency in Washington, after which he was assigned to the Nuclear Weapons Training Center in San Diego.

LCDR Kehoe and his wife, Elizabeth, have four children, and they reside in Cumberland.

LCDR Loflin has been senior resident representative for the Bureau of Naval Weapons at ABL since March of 1958. He has accepted a position as senior technical assistant in the Polaris Department of Hercules Powder Company's Bacchus, Utah plant, and will leave his LaVale home July 10 for his new post.

A native of Denton, N. C., LCDR Loflin enlisted in the Navy on June 6, 1932. During his 30 years in the Navy, he has held all the enlisted personnel ratings from apprentice seaman to chief firecontrolman and was appointed warrant gunnery officer on June 25, 1942.

On October 15, 1943, he was commissioned an ensign and was promoted through commissioned ranks to lieutenant commander on July 1, 1954.

During his Navy career, LCDR Loflin attended numerous Navy schools, including rangefinder and optical school, primary and advanced firecontrol, gunnery officer's ordnance school and several other schools in the firecontrol and ordnance fields.

While LCDR Loflin served aboard the USS New Mexico in the South Pacific, his ship participated in the Gilbert Islands Operation, occupation of Kwajalein and Majuro Atolls, and the capture and occupation of Guam and Saipan.

These battles, along with duty on the USS New Mexico during its Alaskan Campaign and the occupation of Attu Island, earned him the Asiatic Pacific Medal with five battle stars.

Following the war, LCDR Loflin held various posts and was assigned to head the ABL Navy office in 1958.

LCDR Loflin is married to the former Ruby F. Moore of Bear Creek, N. C. LCDR and Mrs. Loflin have a son, Steven, 11, and a daughter, Gayle, 7.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope you can help me with my problem because you are involved, in a sense.

My 16-year-old daughter reads your column religiously. I'm pleased that she does because I believe your advice is good. Parents, of course, never know anything, but Ann Landers — well, that's a different story.

At the dinner table we often discuss your column. Our daughter can recite on everything in it. The world could be aflame with war and unless it was mentioned in Ann Landers' column she wouldn't know it. She never looks at the front page, never reads a news story or an editorial.

I feel it is important for teenagers to keep up with local, national and international news. If you agree with me please say so in your column. Then I'll be certain she sees it. Thank you very much.—A FATHER

DEAR FATHER: I don't want to poke a finger in the eyes that read me but I agree with you wholeheartedly.

An interesting person is a well-informed person. But even more important, each of us shares in the responsibilities of citizenship and an enlightened electorate is essential to a stable society. This is the role of the news and editorial columns of our newspapers.

O course I'm flattered when parents tell me their children turn to my column first, but for Pete's sake, kids, don't stop there!!!!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a career girl — single, 33, and a private secretary to a company president.

A few months ago a handsome, high-type salesman came into the office. He said he was a widower and asked me to join him for dinner. I accepted, and we hit off immediately. After dinner we nightcap. He said my apartment went to my apartment for a was the most charming he had ever seen. He added sadly that his hotel room was dreary and depressing.

Laughing, he announced he was going to stay with me the next time he came through town. I thought he was kidding, but he wasn't. I'm ashamed to say I let him bring his suitcase over.

Last night (on his fifth visit) he confessed he is married and has two children. He says he can't leave his wife now because she's in treatment. He begged me to be patient.

I'm head over heels but how can I believe anything he says now? Please help. At my age, love may never come again.—33

DEAR 33: What do you mean AGAIN? So far as I can see, it hasn't come YET.

A man who could lose a wife and two children in a single sentence is no good. This heel probably knows women with charming apartments all over the country. (These apartments are cheaper than hotel rooms, too.)

You were a fool. Admit it and tell him not to call you again.

DEAR ANN: I'm 19 and in love with a young man of 20. We went steady for a year and I thought surely we'd be married. Then one day out of the blue, he said he wanted to date other girls and he'd call me once in a while "if I wanted him to." I was absolutely shattered but managed to keep my dignity. I told him to call me if he felt like it, and we parted with a handshake.

Two months have gone by and he hasn't called. I've gone out with a few nice fellows but my heart isn't in it. My friends tell me my ex is dating some pretty wild numbers but he still thinks "I'm wonderful."

I'd love to get him back but I don't want to do the crawling. What shall I do?—STILL IN LOVE

DEAR STILL: Nothing. Since your dignity is all you have left, hang on to it. He has your phone number and he'll use it — if and when he wants to.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

120,000 Traffic Signs On Baltimore Streets

BALTIMORE (AP) — Motorists in Baltimore can hardly make a turning — legal, or otherwise — without seeking a sign.

The annual report of the Department of Transit and Traffic shows 16,957 signs were installed on city streets last year.

Before he quit as commissioner of transit and traffic last January to take a similar job in New York, Henry A. Barnes estimated there were about 120,000 traffic signs in Baltimore.

Psychiatrists Study Ambition

Psychiatrists seem to keep busy these days debunking popularly held notions about stresses and strains to be found in various strata of society. Ulcers have been called an occupational disease of executives, and are widely assumed to be the result of worry by the highly competitive upper economic classes.

But new studies show it is the man at the bottom of the economic ladder who worries most about his status, and cultivates the lion's share of the ulcer crop.

Another economic cliche, generally regarded as a primary rule of contentment, has been punctured by Chicago psychiatrists at the Michael Reese Medical Center. They report, after studying 65 college students classified as "mentally healthy," one characteristic is common to them: None has any driving ambition to be exceptionally successful in life.

All of the students were enrolled in health and physical education schools and all had set minimum goals in life which they seemed assured of reaching. Consequently, each was quite contented with his progress and not the least annoyed that others in his age group were passing him in the usual achievements of position, prestige and material comforts.

Does this study suggest something? The psychiatrists are not committing themselves, beyond saying they want to survey other groups of students pursuing other vocations and with different social backgrounds. But the unanimous lack of drive behind this one group of students obviously has the psychiatrists talking to themselves.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Nation Of Islam

In the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, a suit is being brought by Alhajji Talib Ahmad Dawud and Dakota Staton against Elijah Muhammad and Muhammad's Temple of Islam. Muhammad is a Georgia-born Negro, named Elijah Poole, who organized a Negro chauvinistic religious group which is growing in number and in power. It is not favored by the defense organizations of the American colored persons.

In their petition to the Court Dawud and Dakota Staton both say that they are members of the cult and that they have been active in the Muslim religion which holds that all whites "are devils and inherently evil."

According to the complaint, Dawud and Miss Staton say:

"Pursuant to these purposes, and in the name of the Islamic Faith and the Muslim Religion he teaches in these various Temples and Mosques 'Racial Inequality' 'Black Supremacy' and the separation of the Negro people from the American community insofar as it is white; he demands renunciation of loyalty to the United States Government; that Negroes be resettled in States as a separate nation; that they avoid all association with white persons, and that they bear no arms in the service of the United States."

Dawud denies that any of this has anything to do with the Islamic religion as it is known in Moslem countries. In other words they insist that Elijah Poole, alias Elijah Muhammad, is a faker. They call attention to the fact that:

"The adherents of the Islamic Faith number in the hundreds of millions, but there is no responsible group of these that advocates 'racial superiority' 'black supremacy' or similar doctrines: the principal teaching being the unity of God and the brotherhood of man. The followers of Islam are of every race and ethnic origin."

Should this case, asking for a permanent injunction, be pursued to a conclusion, it could be that this curious and dangerous native American sect might be completely exposed. It is about time because its leaders order violation of the law in connection with the draft, requiring that its members not register for Selective Service. There have been recent incidents of violence involving members of this group, particularly in Los Angeles where they are quite violent.

The Black Muslim movement is neither Moslem nor a religion. It is a political cult designed to separate Negroes from whites and to create major troubles in areas in the United States where Negro masses congregate.

This movement is alike dangerous for Negroes as well as whites. In Phoenix, Arizona, it was reported by police that the cult had a select group which was trained in judo, the use of fire-arms and gang fights. This fighting element is called the "Fruit of Islam."

The Los Angeles riot which occurred in May engendered violence. This particularly involved the beating of police which is occurring too often in our large cities. It is curious that this organization has associated itself with a religion which does not recognize its existence, whose language, Arabic, is unknown to its members and leaders. Even the customs of Moslems are not followed by this American cult. It is definitely a political and social movement, American in origin and design. Malcolm X, one of the leaders of the Black Muslims, said in an interview that his group had achieved the respect of the New York police, which is impossible. How can the New York police respect any group which has as its object capturing two states and separating them from the nation?

In effect, all members of this sect have defected from the United States, denying laws passed by Congress and setting up their own rules and regulations. This is done by no other religious body, although some may find some laws troublesome. For instance, these Negroes are opposed to integration. They believe that Negroes should be separated from whites because Negroes are superior and whites are hateful. They fear hat the commingling of whites and Negroes will lead to Negroes lessening their dislikes, their disrespect for whites. All other Negro organizations favor integration.

Men may believe what they choose as long as they do not translate such beliefs into violence. The real danger of this sect is not in their mumbo-jumbo about Islam. It is that they will produce mass violence in the United States, no matter if their leaders constantly speak of peace.

Congressional Votes Emphasize American System

By David Lawrence

When the farm bill was voted down by a very close margin in the House of Representatives the other day, the word was spread far and wide that the President had suffered a "defeat." Then, when the Administration's new foreign trade bill was passed by the House by a substantial margin, the event was described as a big "victory" for Mr. Kennedy.

But, actually, in an issue as complex as the farm problem and with so many varying interests involved, it can hardly be said that the verdict on this measure was clear-cut for either side. The vote did, of course, reveal a negative trend — the feeling that governmental controls of farm production are questionable. But, aside from the merits of this particular issue, it cannot be assumed under the American system of government that a President has been "defeated" just because a measure he has recommended to Congress is not passed.

The converse is also true. The national legislature has not been "defeated" when a President vetoes a measure that has received one less than a two-thirds majority of both houses. The Constitution plainly provides for a difference of opinion between the executive and the legislative branches of the government.

What is lacking today, to be sure, is party responsibility in the same sense in which it is usually exercised under a parliamentary system. In Europe, if a Prime Minister makes a proposal to Parliament and it is denied by a substantial vote of his own party, the point is sometimes but not always made that "a vote of confidence" has been withheld. At times this brings about a general election in which the people decide whether to support the Prime Minister or the Parliament.

In America today there are not just two parties but really four segments of political division. In the case of the farm bill, there were at least a half-dozen factions involved on both sides. On the foreign trade bill, a large number of Republicans joined the Democrats in voting for the measure. It wasn't really a partisan vote at all.

Under a system of so-called "responsible government," where the executive and legislative branches are united, it is not so difficult to fix the responsibility for cleavages that occur. In the United States, however, the tendency in recent years has been for "coalitions" to be formed from the membership of both parties. In fact, ever since New Deal days, conservatives within the Democratic Party have often united with conservatives in the Republican Party to form a majority in Congress.

Since the Democrats obtained virtually a two-thirds majority in both houses in 1960, there has been a feeling that perhaps the coalition would weaken and that it might even be wiped out by the election in 1962 of more so-called "liberals" in both the Republican and Democratic parties in the North. The votes in the last few weeks in Congress, however, have tended to support the theory that the coalition is still as strong as ever. President Kennedy hinted at his news conferlast week that he may campaign on this issue this autumn.

One of the reasons, however, why bipartisan coalitions are natural in Congress is that there are diversified interests throughout the country. Congressmen from rural districts have many problems in common, irrespective of party, just as members who represent urban communities find themselves looking at many questions the same way. For this reason it is not likely at any time, no matter how powerful a President's leadership or how eloquent his words, that there will be an exact relationship between a President's strength and the votes that he gets in Congress on particular measures. After all, a President may recommend and suggest and urge Congress to take a certain line of action, but this does not mean that each individual member of his party in Congress will always agree with him, no matter how much that member may admire the chief executive or wish to help him advance his political fortunes.

Perhaps the most pointed quotation which is frequently recalled in Washington is one that is attributed to a certain Congressman of the Republican Party who was being urged by a Republican President to help sustain the veto of a soldiers' bonus bill after World War I. The member of Congress listened attentively to the presidential arguments and said that he himself agreed in theory with all of them — then added: "Unfortunately, Mr. President, you do not vote in my district."

So it has ben over the years a question more of what the voters in each district or state demand of their representatives in Congress rather than the wisdom of a chief executive's recommendation or the quality of a President's leadership.

The American system provides for two independent branches of government, and in a mid-term election — when the President, of course, isn't running — members of Congress must stand alone on their record. The real victory or defeat is at the polls.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

FARMER'S ANSWER — Rep. Richard Poff of Virginia says he's got the solution to a mystery that has long plagued him and the rest of the farm bloc.

He says he now knows what the government is going to do with all the crops it paid farmers not to grow — store them in all the warehouses Billie Sol Estes never had!

HITCHHIKERS — Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee is a nice guy who likes to give people he knows a lift whenever he can. The other evening he was driving to a reception at the British Embassy when he spotted a well-known radio-TV commentator and his wife and offered them a lift.

He rightly suspected they were headed for the same shindig that he was, but was unprepared for the reception they received upon arrival.

The liveried doorman at the embassy, politely handed the commentator and his wife out of the car, then turned to the senator at the wheel and said:

"Park your car at the circle. The marster will call you."

Unabashed at being mistaken for a chauffeur, Gore replied, "You tell the marster he can walk home."

American Ambassadors Get Word To Stop Fourth Of July Parties

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Today may be the last day Americans traveling abroad can go around to the American Embassy to drink to the anniversary of the USA with the toasts paid for by Uncle Sam.

American ambassadors have been admonished against holding Independence Day receptions by the tough-talking Congressman from Southern Ohio, Wayne Hays, a Democrat.

"The Administration has sent out word to stop those stupid Fourth of July parties," Hays told the House Foreign Relations Committee. "One of our ambassadors in Europe said there was a lot of moaning about this, mostly from Americans who wanted to free-load with liquor."

"It is one time of the year when Americans abroad feel an identification with their country. . . . when they can officially recognize the most important day of their history," disputed Donald Dumont, the State Department's acting director of West African Affairs.

"I have 328,000 people in my district," shot back Hays. "The government doesn't throw a Fourth of July party for them. If they have one, they throw their own."

"They are at home," said Dumont.

"That is right," said Hays. "So what is the difference Americans abroad are not exiled. They are there by choice."

"The people have a nostalgic patriotism on the Fourth of July," suggested William J. Crockett, an Assistant Secretary of State. "I don't say that the government should pay for it, but there is an occasion at that time in foreign countries for getting the American community together."

Mob Scene In London

"The more drinks they have, the more nostalgic they get," commented Hays. He added that he had attended a Fourth of July party once at our Embassy in London.

"That was really a mob scene and I considered it a disgrace to the United States," he said. "Eight or ten people got trampled on, getting up to the bar. Eighty-five per cent of the guests were Americans and the other 15 per cent came to see how crudely Americans behaved on the Fourth of July."

"It couldn't be any worse than some of the parties here in our nation's capital," observed Rep. Clement Zablocki, D., Wis.

"If I were in a country away from home on the Fourth of July, I would like to meet our ambassador,' 'said sympathetic Rep. Leonard Farbstein of New York, also a Democrat. "At the same time, I don't see why the Ambassador should serve hard liquor to obtain a gathering of countrymen. These things can be continued, but not in a manner to be criticized."

"The amount of liquor consumed depends, of course, on the people," declared Zablocki learnedly. "Regardless of whether an individual is here at home or abroad, if he wants to make a fool of himself, he will."

"You don't have to give them the opportunity, by serving liquor," persisted Farbstein. "An ambassador in a large embassy has to have a number of receptions. He has enough obligations so that he can't get out of it, really."

"My objection to these parties is that a State Department man is always at your elbow to find out what you are saying to a businessman alongside of you," chimed in Congresswoman Edna Kelly of Brooklyn, apparently averse to diplomaitc male company.

"That might have been the motive, perhaps, in some cases," admitted Crockett of the State Department. "However, it also may be due to courtesy, in trying to make sure that you are introduced to people."

"The wife (of the diplomat) has appeared at my other elbow, which I find of equal objection," snapped Mrs. Kelly. She did not appear to be mollified by a subsequent comment of Rep. Horace Seely-Brown Jr. (R., Conn.).

"Attractive ladies like yourself always attract men around them," he said.

Expensive Embassies

By this time Congressmen had just about exhausted the 4th of July and Chairman Hays turned to the large amounts of money the State Department was asking — and Congress approving — for construction of embassy buildings in the new republics of Africa.

Hays commented sadly that some of these republics might collapse at any time and be absorbed by a more powerful neighbor. There was no warrant therefore, he said for such heavy investment by the taxpayers in embassy buildings that might have to be abandoned. However, he finally threw up his hands in surrender.

"I would like to be around 200 years from now when they write the history of this, because they will have to coin a stronger word than 'idiot'," he groaned. "That will never cover us."

"We just want to make sure that the term applies to the right person," said Seely-Brown, who is Republican candidate for Senator from Connecticut.

State Department spokesmen smiled wanly. By this they had had it. Even in Moscow they are accustomed to getting better treatment than on Capitol Hill.

I have a confession to make. It is something that happened in Paris. Interested? Those with tender sensibilities can turn to another page. The rest of you may stop smacking your lips and brace yourselves. I grew a mustache. Yes sir. The upper lip now has a pelt.

Many Persons Immune To Athlete's Foot

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Athlete's foot (Tinea pedis) is almost unknown among peoples who go barefoot. They might develop other diseases because of lack of protection of the skin, but a person with a stubborn ringworm infection, between the toes might profit from this observation.

Wear sandals during the summer. It also will help to observe ordinary foot hygiene, such as avoiding injury and keeping the feet clean and dry. These practices should prevent recurrences, once the infection is cured.

Anti-ringworm tablets are of value in some fungal infections but are not the complete answer to athlete's foot. Topical applications should be used also. Whitfield's ointment, which came upon the scene 30 or more years ago, continues to be an efficient remedy. Also recommended are Desenex or soaking the feet in a dilute solution of potassium permanganate.

Tinea pedis is best diagnosed by a microscopic examination of the infected tissues. This is advisable whenever fissures, cracks, an scales are noted between the toes or when blisters develop on the foot.

These are the usual signs of ringworm but are not as reliable as we thought at one time. Fungi were found in only 5 to 10 per cent of a large group of individuals having foot lesions of this kind. This study shows there are other causes of skin conditions that resemble ringworm.

Some scaling of the skin between the toes is considered normal shedding. In addition, there is more than one kind of athlete's foot. Several months ago we reported on the findings of a dermatologist from Florida, who wrote on erythrasma. He isolated certain bacteria from the scaly toe clefts of 50 per cent of a group with lesions that looked like ringworm. Allergy to chemicals in footgear also leads to itching, redness, and irritation of the tissues.

Tinea pedis is not as contagious as we once thought. It is difficult to transmit to the feet of volunteers, unless the tissues are first lacerated or injured. In addition, the ringworm organisms have been isolated from persons with normal skin of the feet. All of this suggests that many are immune to the causative fungus.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on athlete's foot if stamped, self-addressed envelop accompanies request:

TOMORROW: Lung changes from hair spray.

SAROIDOSIS

W. C. B. writes: How does a person get Boeck's sarcoid?

REPLY

We know nothing of the cause of this condition. It resembles a chronic infection involving the skin, lymph nodes, liver, spleen, lungs, heart, pancreas, testes, tonsils, fingers, eyes, salivary glands, and bone. It mimics tuberculosis in many ways but is not tuberculosis. The lesions contain cells of the type that develop when tissue is irritated or invaded by nonbacterial agents. The latest culprit is pine tree pollen which, when stained, look like the tubercle bacilli. In addition, many of the victims come from areas where pine forests are common.

STROKE OMENS

V. M. writes: Are there any warning signals of an impending stroke?

REPLY

Yes — headache, numbness, weakness, slurred speech, and disorientation. These warning signs are not common, however, in that the majority of stroke victims (85 per cent) are not forewarned.

SUGAR AND IRRITATION

M. K. writes: Does aggravation cause the sugar count to rise in a diabetic?

REPLY

No. On the other hand, the level can be lowered by exercise; when you are aggravated take a walk.

ANEMIA AND BEETS

E. T. writes: Are beets good for anemia?

REPLY

Beets have the right color but they do not have enough iron or vitamin B12 to satisfy a single corpuscle.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

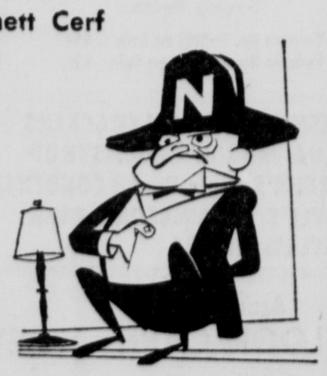
Edith Wharton, author of such great books as "Ethan Frome" and "The Age of Innocence," was no heroine to her hoity-toity relatives, who considered writing books no fit occupation for a young lady of quality. One uncle up in Newport, in fact, admitted that he rated Miss Wharton slightly more erratic than another unfortunate relative who "spent his last years sitting on a marble shelf in the happy illusion that he was a bust of Napoleon."



The day after the late Lloyd Morris' "Postscript to Yesterday" was published, the noted critic, Orville Prescott, gave it a glowing review, and Morris' agent rushed over to read it to him. "Prescott says the book obviously was written by a great gentleman of leisure." At that moment, Morris, having parted company with an incompetent servant the day before, was on his hands and knees scrubbing the kitchen floor.

Two visitors from outer space ambled down Fourth Avenue, each one stretching his four legs and waving his six arms in the air. A tailor, standing in the doorway of his shop, saw them coming and cried out to his partner, "Quick, Mawruss, take down that 'Alterations Free' sign!"

Psychiatrists Study Ambition

Psychiatrists seem to keep busy these days debunking popularly held notions about stresses and strains to be found in various strata of society. Ulcers have been called an occupational disease of executives, and are widely assumed to be the result of worry by the highly competitive upper economic classes.

But new studies show it is the man at the bottom of the economic ladder who worries most about his status, and cultivates the lion's share of the ulcer crop.

Another economic cliche, generally regarded as a primary rule of contentment, has been punctured by Chicago psychiatrists at the Michael Reese Medical Center. They report, after studying 65 college students classified as "mentally healthy," one characteristic is common to them: None has any driving ambition to be exceptionally successful in life.

All of the students were enrolled in health and physical education schools and all had set minimum goals in life which they seemed assured of reaching. Consequently, each was quite contented with his progress and not the least annoyed that others in his age group were passing him in the usual achievements of position, prestige and material comforts.

Does this study suggest something? The psychiatrists are not committing themselves, beyond saying they want to survey other groups of students pursuing other vocations and with different social backgrounds. But the unanimous lack of drive behind this one group of students obviously has the psychiatrists talking to themselves.

These Days

The Nation Of Islam

In the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, a suit is being brought by Alhajji Talib Ahmad Dawud and Dakota Staton against Elijah Muhammad and Muhammad's Temple of Islam. Muhammad is a Georgia-born Negro, named Elijah Poole, who organized a Negro chauvinistic religious group which is growing in number and in power. It is not favored by the defense organizations of the American colored persons.

In their petition to the Court Dawud and Dakota Staton both say that they are members of the cult and that they have been active in the Muslim religion which holds that all whites "are devils and inherently evil."

According to the complaint, Dawud and Miss Staton say:

"Pursuant to these purposes, and in the name of the Islamic Faith and the Muslim Religion he teaches in these various Temples and Mosques 'Racial Inequality' 'Black Supremacy' and the separation of the Negro people from the American community insofar as it is white; he demands renunciation of loyalty to the United States Government; that Negroes be resettled in States as a separate nation; that they avoid all association with white persons, and that they bear no arms in the service of the United States."

Dawud denies that any of this has anything to do with the Islamic religion as it is known in Moslem countries. In other words they insist that Elijah Poole, alias Elijah Muhammad, is a faker. They call attention to the fact that:

"The adherents of the Islamic Faith number in the hundreds of millions, but there is no responsible group of these that advocates 'racial superiority' 'black supremacy' or similar doctrines: the principal teaching being the unity of God and the brotherhood of man. The followers of Islam are of every race and ethnic origin."

Should this case, asking for a permanent injunction, be pursued to a conclusion, it could be that this curious and dangerous native American sect might be completely exposed. It is about time because its leaders order violation of the law in connection with the draft, requiring that its members not register for Selective Service. There have been recent incidents of violence involving members of this group, particularly in Los Angeles where they are quite violent.

The Black Muslim movement is neither Moslem nor a religion. It is a political cult designed to separate Negroes from whites and to create major troubles in areas in the United States where Negro masses congregate.

This movement is alike dangerous for Negroes as well as whites. In Phoenix, Arizona, it was reported by police that the cult had a select group which was trained in judo, the use of fire-arms and gang fights. This fighting element is called the "Fruit of Islam."

The Los Angeles riot which occurred in May engendered violence. This particularly involved the beating of police which is occurring too often in our large cities. It is curious that this organization has associated itself with a religion which does not recognize its existence, whose language, Arabic, is unknown to its members and leaders. Even the customs of Moslems are not followed by this American cult. It is definitely a political and social movement, American in origin and design. Malcolm X, one of the leaders of the Black Muslims, said in an interview that his group had achieved the respect of the New York police, which is impossible. How can the New York police respect any group which has as its object capturing two states and separating them from the nation?

In effect, all members of this sect have defected from the United States, denying laws passed by Congress and setting up their own rules and regulations. This is done by no other religious body, although some may find some laws troublesome. For instance, these Negroes are opposed to integration. They believe that Negroes should be separated from whites because Negroes are superior and whites are hatetul. They fear hat the commingling of whites and Negroes will lead to Negroes lessening their dislikes, their disrespect for whites. All other Negro organizations favor integration.

Men may believe what they choose as long as they do not translate such beliefs into violence. The real danger of this sect is not in their mumbo-jumbo about Islam. It is that they will produce mass violence in the United States, no matter if their leaders constantly speak of peace.

American Ambassadors Get Word To Stop Fourth Of July Parties

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Today may be the last day Americans traveling abroad can go around to the American Embassy to drink to the anniversary of the USA with the toasts paid for by Uncle Sam.

American ambassadors have been admonished against holding Independence Day receptions by the tough-talking Congressman from Southern Ohio, Wayne Hays, a Democrat.

"The Administration has sent out word to stop those stupid Fourth of July parties," Hays told the House Foreign Relations Committee. "One of our ambassadors in Europe said there was a lot of moaning about this, mostly from Americans who wanted to free-load with liquor."

"It is one time of the year when Americans abroad feel an identification with their country. . . . when they can officially recognize the most important day of their history," disputed Donald Dumont, the State Department's acting director of West African Affairs.

"I have 328,000 people in my district," shot back Hays. "The government doesn't throw a Fourth of July party for them. If they have one, they throw their own."

"They are at home," said Dumont.

"That is right," said Hays. "So what is the difference Americans abroad are not exiled. They are there by choice."

"The people have a nostalgic patriotism on the Fourth of July," suggested William J. Crockett, an Assistant Secretary of State. "I don't say that the government should pay for it, but there is an occasion at that time in foreign countries for getting the American community together."

Mob Scene In London

"The more drinks they have, the more nostalgic they get," commented Hays. He added that he had attended a Fourth of July party once at our Embassy in London.

"That was really a mob scene and I considered it a disgrace to the United States," he said. "Eight or ten people got trampled on, getting up to the bar. Eighty-five per cent of the guests were Americans and the other 15 per cent came to see how crudely Americans behaved on the Fourth of July."

"My objection to these parties is that a State Department man is always at your elbow to find out what you are saying to a businessman alongside of you," chimed in Congresswoman Edna Kelly of Brooklyn, apparently averse to diplomaitc male company.

"That might have been the motive, perhaps, in some cases," admitted Crockett of the State Department. "However, it also may be due to courtesy, in trying to make sure that you are introduced to people."

"The wife (of the diplomat) has appeared at my other elbow, which I find of equal objection," snapped Mrs. Kelly. She did not appear to be mollified by a subsequent comment of Rep. Horace Seely-Brown Jr. (R., Conn.).

"Attractive ladies like yourself always attract men around them," he said.

"We just want to make sure that the term applies to the right person," said Seely-Brown, who is Republican candidate for Senator from Connecticut.

State Department spokesmen smiled wanly. By this they had had it. Even in Moscow they are accustomed to getting better treatment than on Capitol Hill.

Congressional Votes Emphasize American System

By David Lawrence

When the farm bill was voted down by a very close margin in the House of Representatives the other day, the word was spread far and wide that the President had suffered a "defeat." Then, when the Administration's new foreign trade bill was passed by the House by a substantial margin, the event was described as a big "victory" for Mr. Kennedy.

But, actually, in an issue as complex as the farm problem and with so many varying interests involved, it can hardly be said that the verdict on this measure was clear-cut for either side. The vote did, of course, reveal a negative trend — the feeling that governmental controls of farm production are questionable. But, aside from the merits of this particular issue, it cannot be assumed under the American system of government that a President has been "defeated" just because a measure he has recommended to Congress is not passed.

The converse is also true. The national legislature has not been "defeated" when a President vetoes a measure that has received one less than a two-thirds majority of both houses. The Constitution plainly provides for a difference of opinion between the executive and the legislative branches of the government.

What is lacking today, to be sure, is party responsibility in the same sense in which it is usually exercised under a parliamentary system. In Europe, if a Prime Minister makes a proposal to Parliament and it is denied by a substantial vote of his own party, the point is sometimes but not always made that "a vote of confidence" has been withheld. At times this brings about a general election in which the people decide whether to support the Prime Minister or the Parliament.

In America today there are not just two parties but really four segments of political division. In the case of the farm bill, there were at least a half-dozen factions involved on both sides. On the foreign trade bill, a large number of Republicans joined the Democrats in voting for the measure. It wasn't really a partisan vote at all.

Under a system of so-called "responsible government," where the executive and legislative branches are united, it is not so difficult to fix the responsibility for cleavages that occur. In the United States, however, the tendency in recent years has been for "coalitions" to be formed from the membership of both parties. In fact, ever since New Deal days, conservatives within the Democratic Party have often united with conservatives in the Republican Party to form a majority in Congress.

Since the Democrats obtained virtually a two-thirds majority in both houses in 1960, there has been a feeling that perhaps the coalition would weaken and that it might even be wiped out by the election in 1962 of more so-called "liberals" in both the Republican and Democratic parties in the North. The votes in the last few weeks in Congress, however, have tended to support the theory that the coalition is still as strong as ever. President Kennedy hinted at his news conferlast week that he may campaign on this issue this autumn.

One of the reasons, however, why bipartisan coalitions are natural in Congress is that there are diversified interests throughout the country. Congressmen from rural districts have many problems in common, irrespective of party, just as members who represent urban communities find themselves looking at many questions the same way. For this reason it is not likely at any time, no matter how powerful a President's leadership or how eloquent his words, that there will be an exact relationship between a President's strength and the votes that he gets in Congress on particular measures. After all, a President may recommend and suggest and urge Congress to take a certain line of action, but this does not mean that each individual member of his party in Congress will always agree with him, no matter how much that member may admire the chief executive or wish to help him advance his political fortunes.

Perhaps the most pointed quotation which is frequently recalled in Washington is one that is attributed to a certain Congressman of the Republican Party who was being urged by a Republican President to help sustain the veto of a soldiers' bonus bill after World War I. The member of Congress listened attentively to the presidential arguments and said that he himself agreed in theory with all of them — then added: "Unfortunately, Mr. President, you do not vote in my district."

So it has ben over the years a question more of what the voters in each district or state demand of their representatives in Congress rather than the wisdom of a chief executive's recommendation or the quality of a President's leadership.

The American system provides for two independent branches of government, and in a mid-term election — when the President, of course, isn't running — members of Congress must stand alone on their record. The real victory or defeat is at the polls.

Inside Washington

FARMER'S ANSWER — Rep. Richard Poff of Virginia says he's got the solution to a mystery that has long plagued him and the rest of the farm bloc.

He says he now knows what the government is going to do with all the crops it paid farmers not to grow — store them in all the warehouses Billie Sol Estes never had!

HITCHHIKERS — Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee is a nice guy who likes to give people he knows a lift whenever he can. The other evening he was driving to a reception at the British Embassy when he spotted a well-known radio-TV commentator and his wife and offered them a lift.

He rightly suspected they were headed for the same shindig that he was, but was unprepared for the reception they received upon arrival.

The liveried doorman at the embassy, politely handed the commentator and his wife out of the car, then turned to the senator at the wheel and said:

"Park your car at the circle. The marster will call you."

Unabashed at being mistaken for a chauffeur, Gore replied, "You tell the marster he can walk home."

It's four months old now, and our dog Rocky isn't accustomed to it yet. When I come in, he still growls. "What's the matter?" I yell. "You never saw a biped before?"

Obviously, the picture accompanying this column is out of date. I have no photo of myself with the new welcome mat, so just pencil in a straight line across the upper lip and you'll know me as I am . . .

Many Persons Immune To Athlete's Foot

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Athlete's foot (Tinea pedis) is almost unknown among peoples who go barefoot. They might develop other diseases because of lack of protection of the skin, but a person with a stubborn ringworm infection, between the toes might profit from this observation.

Wear sandals during the summer. It also will help to observe ordinary foot hygiene, such as avoiding injury and keeping the feet clean and dry. These practices should prevent recurrences, once the infection is cured.

Anti-ringworm tablets are of value in some fungal infections but are not the complete answer to athlete's foot. Topical applications should be used also. Whitfield's ointment, which came upon the scene 30 or more years ago, continues to be an efficient remedy. Also recommended are Desenex or soaking the feet in a dilute solution of potassium permanganate.

Tinea pedis is best diagnosed by a microscopic examination of the infected tissues. This is advisable whenever fissures, cracks, an scales are noted between the toes or when blisters develop on the foot.

These are the usual signs of ringworm but are not as reliable as we thought at one time. Fungi were found in only 5 to 10 per cent of a large group of individuals having foot lesions of this kind. This study shows there are other causes of skin conditions that resemble ringworm.

Some scaling of the skin between the toes is considered normal shedding. In addition, there is more than one kind of athlete's foot. Several months ago we reported on the findings of a dermatologist from Florida, who wrote on erythrasma. He isolated certain bacteria from the scaly toe clefts of 50 per cent of a group with lesions that looked like ringworm. Allergy to chemicals in footgear also leads to itching, redness, and irritation of the tissues.

Tinea pedis is not as contagious as we once thought. It is difficult to transmit to the feet of volunteers, unless the tissues are first lacerated or injured. In addition, the ringworm organisms have been isolated from persons with normal skin of the feet. All of this suggests that many are immune to the causative fungus.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on athlete's foot if stamped, self-addressed envelop accompanies request:

TOMORROW: Lung changes from hair spray.

SAROIDOSIS

W. C. B. writes: How does a person get Boeck's sarcoid?

REPLY

We know nothing of the cause of this condition. It resembles a chronic infection involving the skin, lymph nodes, liver, spleen, lungs, heart, pancreas, testes, tonsils, fingers, eyes, salivary glands, and bone. It mimics tuberculosis in many ways but is not tuberculosis. The lesions contain cells of the type that develop when tissue is irritated or invaded by nonbacterial agents. The latest culprit is pine tree pollen which, when stained, look like the tubercle bacilli. In addition, many of the victims come from areas where pine forests are common.

STROKE OMENS

V. M. writes: Are there any warning signals of an impending stroke?

REPLY

Yes — headache, numbness, weakness, slurred speech, and disorientation. These warning signs are not common, however, in that the majority of stroke victims (85 per cent) are not forewarned.

SUGAR AND IRRITATION

M. K. writes: Does aggravation cause the sugar count to rise in a diabetic?

REPLY

No. On the other hand, the level can be lowered by exercise; when you are aggravated take a walk.

ANEMIA AND BEETS

E. T. writes: Are beets good for anemia?

REPLY

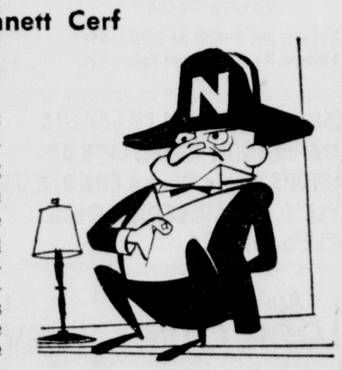
Beets have the right color but they do not have enough iron or vitamin B12 to satisfy a single corpuscle.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Edith Wharton, author of such great books as "Ethan Frome" and "The Age of Innocence," was no heroine to her hoity-toity relatives, who considered writing books no fit occupation for a young lady of quality. One uncle up in Newport, in fact, admitted that he rated Miss Wharton slightly more erratic than another unfortunate relative who "spent his last years sitting on a marble shelf in the happy illusion that he was a bust of Napoleon."



The day after the late Lloyd Morris' "Postscript to Yesterday" was published, the noted critic, Orville Prescott, gave it a glowing review, and Morris' agent rushed over to read it to him. "Prescott says the book obviously was written by a great gentleman of leisure." At that moment, Morris, having parted company with an incompetent servant the day before, was on his hands and knees scrubbing the kitchen floor.

Two visitors from outer space ambled down Fourth Avenue, each one stretching his four legs and waving his six arms in the air. A tailor, standing in the doorway of his shop, saw them coming and cried out to his partner, "Quick, Mawruss, take down that 'Alterations Free' sign!"

Secrets Of Charm

Ole Debil Fatigue — How To Combat It

"Sitting" workers usually end up a work session with aches and tension in the neck, shoulders and upper back. This tension often leads to the mysterious headache that no pain killer seems to relieve. It's also responsible for many a secretary's longing for a massage to ease her back after a hectic day.

Women who stand at their work naturally fall prey to foot hurts and strain in the legs and lower back.

The homemaker, whose pursuits call for both standing and sitting, is heir to the fatigue problems of both positions, depending on any day's special activity. Head-to-toe complaints can be hers!

There are a few simple measures that you can employ to counteract accumulated fatigue. First, last and always, erect posture will do wonders to prevent and relieve the strain of any position, so try to make good posture your habit.

For the upper back, shoulders and neck aches, stand several inches from a wall, feet astride. Stretch your arms overhead; then flop over from the hips, touching the floor with your fingertips if you can. Now, returning to your starting position, slowly uncurl your spine inch by inch against the wall. Four or five times at intervals during the day should prevent fatigue kinks from occurring!

For lower back and leg pains, lie flat on the floor. Bend both knees sharply up to the chest. Using your hands to boost your hips off the floor, kick both legs straight up in the air and then "bicycle' kick. After ten revolutions, try to touch the floor above your head with the right leg. Bring it back to the raised position and try with the left. Next, lower both legs gradually to starting position and relax. Five times for this routine, night and morning, and your back will feel like new and your legs will cease to swell.

Too tired to try it? Try it and you won't be so tired!

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	2 ♦	2 ♠
3 ♥	4 ♠	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♥

Whenever declarer is not in position to draw the opponent's trumps early in the play, he must be careful to protect his high card values in the side suits from adverse ruffs. As an illustration, let us examine South's rather sloppy performance in today's hand.

North and South reached their spade game on direct bidding. West doubled the final contract because he felt that his four trumps would complicate matters for the opponents, and he wished to discourage partner from taking a save.

West opened his singleton heart and East's ten forced the ace. South saw at once that he had nine top tricks in spades, hearts, and clubs, and that a 10th trick could be obtained by ruffing the fourth round of hearts in the dummy. Without any further thought, he returned a heart in order to develop the ruffing situation.

On the second heart, West discarded the deuce of clubs and East won the trick. The king of hearts came back and West threw the three of clubs. Since he was discarding up the line, West was marked with a third club, so East played another high heart forcing the dummy to ruff with the four of spades. On this trick West parted with his remaining club.

Declarer cashed the king and queen of spades but, when East showed out on the second round, South could not afford to overtake dummy's trump. He was afraid to return to his hand with a club, so he led the deuce of diamonds. East, however, was on the alert, and he put up the queen of diamonds to hold the trick, in order to return another heart. West now made his ten of spades on an overruff to set the contract.

Since the bidding had more or less marked West with a singleton heart, declarer should have realized that his opponent would shed away his clubs on subsequent rounds of hearts. In order to prevent this, South should have taken his three high clubs immediately and hoped that all hands would follow. Now, before he goes to work on the hearts, he must lead a diamond in order to establish communications between the dummy and his own hand. After trumping the fourth heart and cashing the king and queen of spades, he will then be able to safely ruff himself in with a diamond, and finish drawing the trumps.

Youthful Travelers Report On Cross-Country Trip

Cumberland's "Traveling Campers" are edging their way toward Seattle's World Fair and are having the time of their lives, according to a letter received Monday from Jackie Hallinan.

Jackie in her note said, "We really ran into a good deal with the saving banks out here. Instead of water coolers they have fresh milk and cookies with signs: 'Help Yourself', and boy have we been helping ourselves.

"We spent Sunday (July 1) at Lake Rushmore, Wyo., and are running about one day behind schedule. However, we have an engagement at the Needle Point for breakfast on Friday (July 6) and we don't expect to miss it.

"We are averaging about six hours sleep a day and everywhere we go the people kid us about our southern accent, if you can imagine that."

The campers, 19 local students, four school teachers and two registered nurses, left Cumberland at 5:15 a. m. on June 25 for a 30-day tour across the nation and a four-day stop at the World's Fair in Seattle.

Thus far the youngsters have stopped in Chicago, Spring Valley State Park, Minn., Sioux Falls, S. D., Lake Hansell, Worthington, Minn., where they took a quick swim, and various other parks along the 3,250 mile journey.

Jackie said: "We have mailed back 120 pounds of luggage because of the weight on the three station wagons, but the way we've been eating we'll gain that back and some more.

"The road we're riding on is pink and an ox and covered wagon just passed. We have been getting some wonderful movies and most of the kids are reading several hours each day.

"Last Friday (June 29) we moved into the Bad Lands which advertised 'No Mosquitos.' Boy this was a welcome relief, since the bugs have been eating us alive at night."

"The weather has been beautiful and when we slept under the stars at Devil's Lake, Wis., we didn't even use tents."

Sales Manager Is Named By Fruit Company

PAW PAW—Anthony J. Rubino of Milwaukee, Wis., has been named sales manager for Consolidated Distributors, Inc., with offices here, it was announced by Henry W. Miller Jr., Consolidated president.

Rubino comes to Consolidated with considerable experience in the fresh fruit and vegetable field. He managed the Rubino Produce Company of Greensburg, Pa., from 1950 through 1957 and since 1958 has held the position of Manager for Roundy's Produce, a large retail owned food distributing organization serving over 250 independent retail stores in Wisconsin from offices and warehouses at Milwaukee.

Rubino is well known in the eastern panhandle of West Virginia due to the fact that his father Anthony (Tony) Rubino has owned and used a summer home about 10 miles from Paw Paw on North River. Young Anthony, now 32, spent much of his boyhood in the Paw Paw area.

The company also announces that its experienced assistant sales manager, Mrs. Maxine Mahood and other trained members of the sales force, will be on the job this season as usual.

Consolidated Distributors, Inc. is well known in trade circles both in this country and abroad as a high class market agency, selling quality fresh apples and peaches grown and packed in the famous mountain fruit area of North-Eastern West Virginia and Western Maryland by Consolidated Orchard Company of Paw Paw and Romney Orchards, Inc. of Romney, West Virginia.

Miller also reports that the parent producing companies have good crops of both apples and peaches coming up, that the fruit is generally clean and otherwise in excellent condition and that the season is running from one week to 10 days earlier than last year so that first varieties of apples, namely Transparent and Lodi, should be ready to move beginning about July 5th.

All fruit shipped under the Companies leading brands, "Mountaineer" and "Twin Mountain" will continue to be packed fresh on order only under strict quality controls, Miller said.

Twins Solve Bosox Jinx, 4-3; Yankee Homers Sink KC, 8-7

Killebrew's 3-Base Clout Decides Tilt

Moore's Relief Pitching Saves Minnesota Win

BOSTON (AP)—The Minnesota Twins solved their Boston jinx 4-3 Tuesday on Harmon Killebrew's booming, one-run triple, and great last ditch relief pitching by Ray Moore.

Boston had runners on first and third with none out in the ninth when Moore replaced winner Jack Kralick.

Moore got Jim Pagliaroni on a pop then struck out Lu Clinton and Eddie Bressoud who between them had collected five of the nine Red Sox hits.

Hitless his first three tries, Killebrew lashed the winning blow off the wall in left center capping a two-run seventh inning.

The pennant-contending Twins had lost all five previous meetings with the Red Sox this season.

Four Sox singles came in the second where a great throw from right fielder Bob Allison to All-Star third baseman Rich Rollins held the losers to just one run in the uprising.

Pagliaroni's hit, the second safety in the inning, scored Frank Malzone but Allison later cut down Pagliaroni trying to advance from first to third.

The other Sox runs came on a Clinton double and a wild pitch in the seventh.

Allison's alert base running set up the first Minnesota run off loser Don Schwall and Rollins doubled to bring in the second.

A single by Kralick, a sacrifice bunt, Vic Power's single and an error preceded Killebrew's three-bagger in the Twins' seventh.

Mantle's 2nd In 8th Breaks 7-7 Deadlock

Maris Also Belts Pair As Bud Daley Scores In Relief

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle each hit two home runs Tuesday as the league-leading New York Yankees came from behind with a four-run splurge in the eighth inning to defeat the Kansas City Athletics 8-7 and open up a one-half game margin over the idle Los Angeles Angels.

Mantle's second home run, off relief pitcher Gordon Jones, broke up a 7-7 deadlock.

Jones had replaced starter Jerry Walker in the seventh after the Yankees had narrowed Kansas City's lead to 7-4 on solo home runs by Bobby Richardson and Maris.

In the eighth inning Jones got into a jam when pinch hitter Elston Howard singled and Tom Tresh walked with one out. Richardson hit into a force play, but Maris walloped his 18th home run and Mantle followed with his 13th.

The Athletics threatened in the ninth, putting runners on first and third with nobody out. The left-hander, however, escaped unscathed by retiring Manny Jimenez, the league's leading hitter, on an infield pop, striking out Norm Siebern and disposing of Ed Charles on an outfield fly.

The victory went to Bud Daley, who held the A's hitless and runless through the seventh and eighth.

Giants' Sanford Whips Mets, 10-1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Jack Sanford, posting his third win over the New York Mets, hurled the San Francisco Giants to a 10-1 victory Tuesday that listed them back within a half game behind idle Los Angeles in the National League race.

The Giants gave their beefy right-hander plenty of backing at bat and in the field as they racked starter Al Jackson and two other hurlers for 15 hits.

Jackson, whose record now is 4-9, gave up 10 hits and seven runs before he was taken out after four and one-third innings.

Sanford had no breeze either, being tagged for nine hits, but he went the route with the aid of three double-plays.

He now has eight wins and six defeats.

The big blows of the game were a two-run homer by the league leading hitter Felipe Alou in the 8th inning off Wilmer Mizell and a two-run triple by Jim Davenport in the 2nd.

Players Honor Crandall For Comeback This Year

Designate Him No. 1 NL Catcher By Voting Del All-Star Berth

By JACK [illegible]
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—By their ballots National League players have indirectly nominated Del Crandall as the prime candidate for baseball's comeback of the year.

They did it when they designated him the No. 1 catcher in their circuit by voting him to the All-Star team.

Those two distinctions represent a pair of victories over tremendous odds for the serious-minded 32-year-old catcher of the Milwaukee Braves.

Crandall—a husky, blond 200-pounder who shows definite managerial tendencies—was practically useless to the Braves last year. He appeared in only 15 games because of an inflamed tendon in his right shoulder.

Caused Severe Pain

"The doctors called it a frozen shoulder," he explains. "All I know is that it pained me severely and it was impossible for me to do any throwing."

The Braves held their breath this spring. So did Crandall. He knew, and they knew, that if the shoulder did not come around it would be the end of his 11-year career in the majors.

"I went into the start of the season with my eyes open," says the soft-spoken veteran who has played on two pennant-winners for the Braves.

"I didn't want to build myself up to a big let-down," he adds. "All I wanted to do was to continue to be a part of the ball club, but I didn't blind myself to the fact that my career could be over if my shoulder did not come around."

Del started slowly this spring. He had the blessing of Birdie Tebbetts, the understanding Milwaukee manager, who was a catcher himself once and who cautioned Crandall not to rush his comeback.

Increased Throwing Gradually

Little by little, Del did more throwing. And he was encouraged by the fact there was practically no pain.

Through the first month of the season he was one of the Braves' more consistent hitters, and his work behind the plate was nearly faultless.

His excellence was not a temporary showing. Del attracted the All-Star votes of his National League colleagues because his batting average was right at .300 when they did the balloting. Sympathy had no bearing on that vote.

"I'm happy to get the chance to play in this All-Star game," says Crandall, who had been chosen to the team four times previously.

But, above all, he's delighted that he's solidly entrenched behind the plate on his own club again—after the fears last March when his future was very uncertain.

Court Upholds Race Ruling

Harness Group Acted Fairly

BOSTON (UPI) — The Massachusetts Supreme Court Tuesday upheld a ruling of the state racing commission in a dispute between two harness racing associations over division of the 90-day annual racing season.

The court ruled that the commission acted fairly in allowing the Bay State Harness Horse Racing and Breeding Association, Inc., which operates Bay State Raceway in Foxboro, 57 of the 90 days.

Bay State had applied for a 67-day season.

The Eastern Racing Association, Inc., requested and was granted 33 days of the 90 - day total for harness racing at Suffolk Downs.

In a decision written by Justice Paul G. Kirk, the high court said the racing commission had made "an effective and fair comparative appraisal of the merits of the applications in the light of public interest."

DETROIT (AP) — Jake Wood's high hopper to third base scored the winning run in the 11th inning Tuesday as the Detroit Tigers nipped the Chicago White Sox 5-4 for their seventh victory in nine games.

The Tigers had tied the score 4-4 in the eighth on Bubba Morton's home run.

The Tigers' run in the 11th was unearned. Detroit loaded the bases with one out on Billy Bruton's single, a walk and third baseman Al Smith's error. Wood followed with his high bouncer to Smith, who speared the ball and landed on third base for a forceout as Bruton raced home with the winning run.

Home runs by Floyd Robinson, Charlie Maxwell and Bob Roselli accounted for all the White Sox runs and lifted them to a 4-3 lead before Morton tied it.

Ron Nischwitz picked up the victory with four innings of hitless relief ball. The loss went to reliever Mike Joyce, third Chicago pitcher.

Twins Solve Bosox Jinx, 4-3; Yankee Homers Sink KC, 8-7

Killebrew's 3-Base Clout Decides Tilt

Moore's Relief Pitching Saves Minnesota Win

BOSTON (AP)—The Minnesota Twins solved their Boston jinx 4-3 Tuesday on Harmon Killebrew's booming, one-run triple, and great last ditch relief pitching by Ray Moore.

Boston had runners on first and third with none out in the ninth when Moore replaced winner Jack Kralick.

Moore got Jim Pagliaroni on a pop then struck out Lu Clinton and Eddie Bressoud who between them had collected five of the nine Red Sox hits.

Hitless his first three tries, Killebrew lashed the winning blow off the wall in left center capping a two-run seventh inning.

The pennant-contending Twins had lost all five previous meetings with the Red Sox this season.

Four Sox singles came in the second where a great throw from right fielder Bob Allison to All-Star third baseman Rich Rollins held the losers to just one run in the uprising.

Pagliaroni's hit, the second safety in the inning, scored Frank Malzone but Allison later cut down Pagliaroni trying to advance from first to third.

The other Sox runs came on a Clinton double and a wild pitch in the seventh.

Allison's alert base running set up the first Minnesota run off loser Don Schwall and Rollins doubled to bring in the second.

A single by Kralick, a sacrifice bunt, Vic Power's single and an error preceded Killebrew's three-bagger in the Twins' seventh.

Court Upholds Race Ruling

Harness Group Acted Fairly

BOSTON (UPI) — The Massachusetts Supreme Court Tuesday upheld a ruling of the state racing commission in a dispute between two harness racing associations over division of the 90-day annual racing season.

The court ruled that the commission acted fairly in allowing the Bay State Harness Horse Racing and Breeding Association, Inc., which operates Bay State Raceway in Foxboro, 57 of the 90 days.

Bay State had applied for a 67-day season.

The Eastern Racing Association, Inc., requested and was granted 33 days of the 90 - day total for harness racing at Suffolk Downs.

In a decision written by Justice Paul G. Kirk, the high court said the racing commission had made "an effective and fair comparative appraisal of the merits of the applications in the light of public interest."

Mantle's 2nd In 8th Breaks 7-7 Deadlock

Maris Also Belts Pair As Bud Daley Scores In Relief

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle each hit two home runs Tuesday as the league-leading New York Yankees came from behind with a four-run splurge in the eighth inning to defeat the Kansas City Athletics 8-7 and open up a one-half game margin over the idle Los Angeles Angels.

Mantle's second home run, off relief pitcher Gordon Jones, broke up a 7-7 deadlock.

Jones had replaced starter Jerry Walker in the seventh after the Yankees had narrowed Kansas City's lead to 7-4 on solo home runs by Bobby Richardson and Maris.

In the eighth inning Jones got into a jam when pinch hitter Elston Howard singled and Tom Tresh walked with one out. Richardson hit into a force play, but Maris walloped his 18th home run and Mantle followed with his 13th.

The Athletics threatened in the ninth, putting runners on first and third with nobody out. The left-hander, however, escaped unscathed by retiring Manny Jimenez, the league's leading hitter, on an infield pop, striking out Norm Siebern and disposing of Ed Charles on an outfield fly.

The victory went to Bud Daley, who held the A's hitless and runless through the seventh and eighth.

Giants' Sanford Whips Mets, 10-1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Jack Sanford, posting his third win over the New York Mets, hurled the San Francisco Giants to a 10-1 victory Tuesday that listed them back within a half game behind idle Los Angeles in the National League race.

The Giants gave their beefy right-hander plenty of backing at bat and in the field as they racked starter Al Jackson and two other hurlers for 15 hits.

Jackson, whose record now is 4-9, gave up 10 hits and seven runs before he was taken out after four and one-third innings.

Sanford had no breeze either, being tagged for nine hits, but he went the route with the aid of three double-plays.

He now has eight wins and six defeats.

The big blows of the game were a two-run homer by the league leading hitter Felipe Alou in the 8th inning off Wilmer Mizell and a two-run triple by Jim Davenport in the 2nd.

Players Honor Crandall For Comeback This Year

Designate Him No. 1 NL Catcher By Voting Del All-Star Berth

By JACK [illegible]
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—By their ballots National League players have indirectly nominated Del Crandall as the prime candidate for baseball's comeback of the year.

They did it when they designated him the No. 1 catcher in their circuit by voting him to the All-Star team.

Those two distinctions represent a pair of victories over tremendous odds for the serious-minded 32-year-old catcher of the Milwaukee Braves.

Crandall—a husky, blond 200-pounder who shows definite managerial tendencies—was practically useless to the Braves last year. He appeared in only 15 games because of an inflamed tendon in his right shoulder.

Caused Severe Pain

"The doctors called it a frozen shoulder," he explains. "All I know is that it pained me severely and it was impossible for me to do any throwing."

The Braves held their breath this spring. So did Crandall. He knew, and they knew, that if the shoulder did not come around it would be the end of his 11-year career in the majors.

"I went into the start of the season with my eyes open," says the soft-spoken veteran who has played on two pennant-winners for the Braves.

"I didn't want to build myself up to a big let-down," he adds. "All I wanted to do was to continue to be a part of the ball club, but I didn't blind myself to the fact that my career could be over if my shoulder did not come around."

Del started slowly this spring. He had the blessing of Birdie Tebbetts, the understanding Milwaukee manager, who was a catcher himself once and who cautioned Crandall not to rush his comeback.

Increased Throwing Gradually

Little by little, Del did more throwing. And he was encouraged by the fact there was practically no pain.

Through the first month of the season he was one of the Braves' more consistent hitters, and his work behind the plate was nearly faultless.

His excellence was not a temporary showing. Del attracted the All-Star votes of his National League colleagues because his batting average was right at .300 when they did the balloting. Sympathy had no bearing on that vote.

"I'm happy to get the chance to play in this All-Star game," says Crandall, who had been chosen to the team four times previously.

But, above all, he's delighted that he's solidly entrenched behind the plate on his own club again—after the fears last March when his future was very uncertain.

Seven National League Pitchers Are Named For All-Star Game

Sandy Koufax Of Dodgers Is Only Southpaw

Hutchinson Leaves Robinson Off Squad By Selecting Alou

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — Manager Fred Hutchinson selected the National League All-Star pitchers and reserves Tuesday, naming Stan Musial to the team for a record 19th time while reluctantly passing over one of his own Cincinnati players, Frank Robinson.

Robinson, the Reds' right fielder, is blistering the ball at a .323 clip and actually is out-hitting Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, who was chosen as the National League's starting right fielder by his fellow players for the All-Star game at Washington, July 10.

Felipe Alou of San Francisco was the second choice of the players in right field and Hutchinson went along with the balloting by picking him as one of his outfield reserves.

The other outfielders Hutch named were Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, Richie Ashburn of New York, John Callison of Philadelphia and Musial. Willie Mays of the Giants and Tommy Davis of the Dodgers were chosen as starters by the players.

Follows Precedent

"I hated to leave Robinson off the team," Hutchinson said, "but precedent has been established about picking the second choice and Alou was the second choice."

Hutchinson also had to choose at least one player from the Mets and one from the Phillies and that accounted for the selection of Ashburn and Callison.

Musial's selection, however, surprised no one. In the past, some NL managers were accused of picking Musial purely on sentiment, but the 41-year-old St. Louis Cardinal veteran is breezing along with a lofty .330 batting average.

Others Named

The other six pitchers named by Hutchinson were Don Drysdale of the Dodgers, Dick Farrell of Houston, Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Juan Marichal of the Giants, Bob Purkey of the Reds and Bob Shaw of Milwaukee.

The complete NL squad:

Pitchers — Don Drysdale, Los Angeles; Dick Farrell, Houston; Bob Gibson, St. Louis; Sandy Koufax, Los Angeles; Juan Marichal, San Francisco; Bob Purkey Cincinnati, and Bob Shaw, Milwaukee.

Catchers — Del Crandall, Milwaukee; John Roseboro, Los Angeles.

Infielders — Ernie Banks, Chicago; Frank Bolling, Milwaukee; Ken Boyer, St. Louis; Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco; Jim Davenport, San Francisco; Dick Groat, Pittsburgh; Bill Mazeroski, Pittsburgh, and Maury Wills, Los Angeles.

Outfielders—Hank Aaron, Milwaukee; Felipe Alou, San Francisco; Richie Ashburn, New York; John Callison, Philadelphia; Roberto Clemente, Pittsburgh; Tommy Davis, Los Angeles; Willie Mays, San Francisco, and Stan Musial, St. Louis.

Start For Nationals

The starting players, in addition to Mays, Clemente and Davis, are Crandall, Cepeda, Mazeroski, Groat and Boyer.

Hutchinson named Chris Short of the Phillies and coach Cot Deal of Houston as batting practice pitchers and coach Pete Whisenant of the Reds as batting practice catcher.

The Dodgers and Giants have the most All-Star representatives with five apiece. The Braves have four, the Pirates and Cardinals three apiece, and the Cubs, Reds, Colts, Mets and Phillies one each.

Bonjour Picked In Dover Stakes

Ten 2-Year-Olds In Delaware Race

STANTON, Del. (AP)—Bonjour, seeking his first stakes triumph, is the favorite to win Wednesday's 24th Dover Stakes at Delaware Park in a field of 10 two-year-olds.

The 5½ furlong July 4 feature, with a gross of $23,850, will net $16,850 to the winner if all 10 go to the post.

Bonjour is owned by Miss Patrice Jacobs and trained by her famous father, Hirsch Jacobs.

Carrying 116—the top weight—he will be ridden by Jockey Bobby Ussery.

Jack I Bender's Brown Boots, victorious in two of his four outings, is the second choice, with Harold J. Rose's Wild Marking, Mrs. John P. Jones' Pep and C. Mahlon Kline's Chillerton also rated high.

Nine members of the 1961 Syracuse football team have signed professional contracts.

Sam Snead Sees Palmer, Nicklaus Top Golfers For Years To Come

Figures Three U.S. Golfers Have Chance To Cop British Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The question of who is to dominate big-time golf for the next decade—Arnold Palmer or Jack Nicklaus—probably will depend on which one burns out the quicker, Sam Snead said Tuesday.

"Both have a lot of drive and a lot of ambition," the all-time swinging stylist from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., added.

"There are tournaments every week. If you skip a tournament, you have exhibitions or some other responsibility. The pressure is terrific.

"How long can a man take this kind of tension, day in and day out? It got to Cary Middlecoff and Ken Venturi. They are still young men who should be winning tournaments. But they are having their problems.

"The tournament golfer today is like the big league pitcher. It may look like he can go to the mound every day, but he can't. He must pitch one day and rest three. Golfers ought to do the same—but they don't."

Snead paused in New York en route to Troon, Scotland, where he will begin play Monday in the British Open along with Palmer, Nicklaus, Gene Littler, Doug Sanders and others.

"If I had to make a pick," Sam said, not extending his neck too far out, "I'd have to say it would be among Palmer, Nicklaus and Littler, with Peter Thomson of Australia, who always plays well in the British Open, having a good chance.

Snead said he figures Palmer will get the upper hand on Nicklaus during the next five years and then Nicklaus — unless he burns himself out—will take over. Palmer is 32, Nicklaus 22.

"Jack is a pretty composed boy," Snead added. "He's strong, a great putter and when he goes out to that first tee he looks like a man going out to paint the back porch."

Game Is Postponed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A scheduled afternoon game between the Los Angeles Angels and the Washington Senators was postponed Tuesday because of rain. It was rescheduled as part of a twi-light-night doubleheader here Aug. 31.

American Girl In Semi-Finals At Wimbledon

Karen Susman Wins, Darlene Hard Loses

By ROBERT MUSEL

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Karen Hantze Susman slowly stroked her way into the women's singles semifinals of the Wimbledon tennis championships Tuesday, but the favorite for the title, America's Darlene Hard, fell victim to an unseeded Czechoslovakian housewife in a stunning upset.

Mrs. Susman, who comes from Chula Vista, Calif., but now lives in San Antonio, Tex., with her student husband, scored a 6-4, 6-4 victory over an irate Renee Schuurman of South Africa, who complained she was rattled by the 19-year-old American's "tactics."

But Mrs. Susman's victory was overshadowed by the defeat of Miss Hard, the top-ranking United States women's player and No. 2 seed here, 6-4, 6-3, by 31-year-old Vera Sukova, who divides her time between her home and her job in a jet plane factory.

This was in its way as startling to the 20,000 fans as last Tuesday's elimination of top - seeded Margaret Smith of Australia by unheralded Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif. Tuesday Miss Moffitt was on the losing end of an upset when she was eliminated by Ann Haydon of England, 6-3, 6-1.

In Thursday's semifinals, Mrs. Susman meets Miss Haydon and Mrs. Sukova plays Maria Bueno of Brazil, the No. 3 seed and 1960 champion who beat Lesley Turner of Australia Tuesday, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

36 Americans Drill With Rough Riders

OTTAWA, Ont. (UPI) — Import fullback Gerry Nesbitt, a perennial holdout, was missing again Tuesday when the Ottawa Rough Riders began heavy training for the 1962 Eastern Football Conference season.

More than 60 candidates, including 36 Americans, were on hand for the first of a series of two-a-day workouts called by head coach Frank Clair.

Nesbitt, a 29-year-old University of Arkansas grad used primarily as a linebacker the past three seasons, was scheduled to telephone the Rider head office from his Little Rock, Ark., home later in the day. The import back, who reported late the past two years, was believed far apart from the club on this year's salary and team officials were not optimistic over his chances of reporting.

Postponed Games Are Rescheduled

The three-game slate in the Dapper Dan Little League was washed out yesterday by rain and two of the games have been rescheduled later in the week. The Orioles at Cardinals will meet Saturday at 10 a.m. at Post Field while the Athletics and Senators reset their contest for Sunday at 6 p.m. at Constitution Park.

No date has been set for the playing of the Phillies and Cubs tilt at Constitution Park.

Mount Savage Seeks Tie For Second Place

Old Germans Host Flintstone Today

Mt. Savage's Old Germans have an opportunity to tie Grantsville's Sluggers for second place in the Pen-Mar League when they tackle the Flintstone Farmers in the only holiday game scheduled in the Pen-Mar Baseball League today.

Manager Kenny Johnson's team has won six of its last seven games and a victory today would give the Old Germans a 10-6 record, 2½ games back of Frostburg's first place Merchants (12-3).

Today's game is set for Mt. Savage and is slated to get under way at 2:30 p. m.

Mt. Savage has trounced Flintstone twice by scores of 14-3 and 16-7 and today's contest will be the third of their four-game series. The veteran Ralph Dickel (3-0) holds both decisions over the Farmers.

Flintstone has lost three games in a row and is mired in last place with a 1-13 record. The Farmers' only victory was at the expense of Frostburg, 10-9.

Allen Returns Chargers Contract

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Chuck Allen, who in his rookie season last year won All-American football league honors at linebacker, has returned his signed 1962 contract to the San Diego Chargers, it was announced Tuesday by head coach and general manager Six Gillman.

A University of Washington graduate, Allen was the Chargers' 28th draft choice last year but surprised everyone by winning a starting berth before breaking his ankle in the team's ninth game.

Tom Baird, Former Monarchs' Owner, Taken By Death

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Tom Baird, 77, former owner of the Kansas City Monarchs Negro baseball team, died Monday in his sleep, apparently of a heart ailment.

Baird helped organize the Monarchs in 1919 and in the last 10 years in which he owned the team it sold a total of 38 players, 29 of whom went to major league clubs.

Among those who once played under Baird with the Monarchs was Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to play in the majors and now a member of Baseball's Hall of Fame.

Others included Satchel Paige, Connie Johnson, Curtis Roberts, Gene Baker, Ernie Banks and Elston Howard.

Baird also operated a bowling and recreation center here and was a former business manager of the Harlem All-Stars, a Negro basketball team headed by Goose Tatum.

Arcaro Is Honored At Monmouth Park

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 3 (AP) — Coming from well off the early pace, Henry H. Mundy's favored polyquill was up in time to register a length and a quarter victory in the six furlong feature at Monmouth Park. The victory was the third of the day for Jockey William Zakoor.

Polyquill, solid choice of the crowd of 17,435, paid $5.00, $3.40 and $2.60 as he raced the distance in 1:10 1/5. Bernadotte Stable's Outline was second, two and a half lengths before Five Star Stable's Saint or Sinner.

Seven National League Pitchers Are Named For All-Star Game

Sandy Koufax Of Dodgers Is Only Southpaw

Hutchinson Leaves Robinson Off Squad By Selecting Alou

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — Manager Fred Hutchinson selected the National League All-Star pitchers and reserves Tuesday, naming Stan Musial to the team for a record 19th time while reluctantly passing over one of his own Cincinnati players, Frank Robinson.

Robinson, the Reds' right fielder, is blistering the ball at a .323 clip and actually is out-hitting Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, who was chosen as the National League's starting right fielder by his fellow players for the All-Star game at Washington, July 10.

Felipe Alou of San Francisco was the second choice of the players in right field and Hutchinson went along with the balloting by picking him as one of his outfield reserves.

The other outfielders Hutch named were Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, Richie Ashburn of New York, John Callison of Philadelphia and Musial. Willie Mays of the Giants and Tommy Davis of the Dodgers were chosen as starters by the players.

Follows Precedent

"I hated to leave Robinson off the team," Hutchinson said, "but precedent has been established about picking the second choice and Alou was the second choice."

Hutchinson also had to choose at least one player from the Mets and one from the Phillies and that accounted for the selection of Ashburn and Callison.

Musial's selection, however, surprised no one. In the past, some NL managers were accused of picking Musial purely on sentiment, but the 41-year-old St. Louis Cardinal veteran is breezing along with a lofty .330 batting average.

Others Named

The other six pitchers named by Hutchinson were Don Drysdale of the Dodgers, Dick Farrell of Houston, Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Juan Marichal of the Giants, Bob Purkey of the Reds and Bob Shaw of Milwaukee.

The complete NL squad:

Pitchers — Don Drysdale, Los Angeles; Dick Farrell, Houston; Bob Gibson, St. Louis; Sandy Koufax, Los Angeles; Juan Marichal, San Francisco; Bob Purkey Cincinnati, and Bob Shaw, Milwaukee.

Catchers — Del Crandall, Milwaukee; John Roseboro, Los Angeles.

Infielders — Ernie Banks, Chicago; Frank Bolling, Milwaukee; Ken Boyer, St. Louis; Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco; Jim Davenport, San Francisco; Dick Groat, Pittsburgh; Bill Mazeroski, Pittsburgh, and Maury Wills, Los Angeles.

Outfielders—Hank Aaron, Milwaukee; Felipe Alou, San Francisco; Richie Ashburn, New York; John Callison, Philadelphia; Roberto Clemente, Pittsburgh; Tommy Davis, Los Angeles; Willie Mays, San Francisco, and Stan Musial, St. Louis.

Start For Nationals

The starting players, in addition to Mays, Clemente and Davis, are Crandall, Cepeda, Mazeroski, Groat and Boyer.

Hutchinson named Chris Short of the Phillies and coach Cot Deal of Houston as batting practice pitchers and coach Pete Whisenant of the Reds as batting practice catcher.

The Dodgers and Giants have the most All-Star representatives with five apiece. The Braves have four, the Pirates and Cardinals three apiece, and the Cubs, Reds, Colts, Mets and Phillies one each.

Bonjour Picked In Dover Stakes

Ten 2-Year-Olds In Delaware Race

STANTON, Del. (AP)—Bonjour, seeking his first stakes triumph, is the favorite to win Wednesday's 24th Dover Stakes at Delaware Park in a field of 10 two-year-olds.

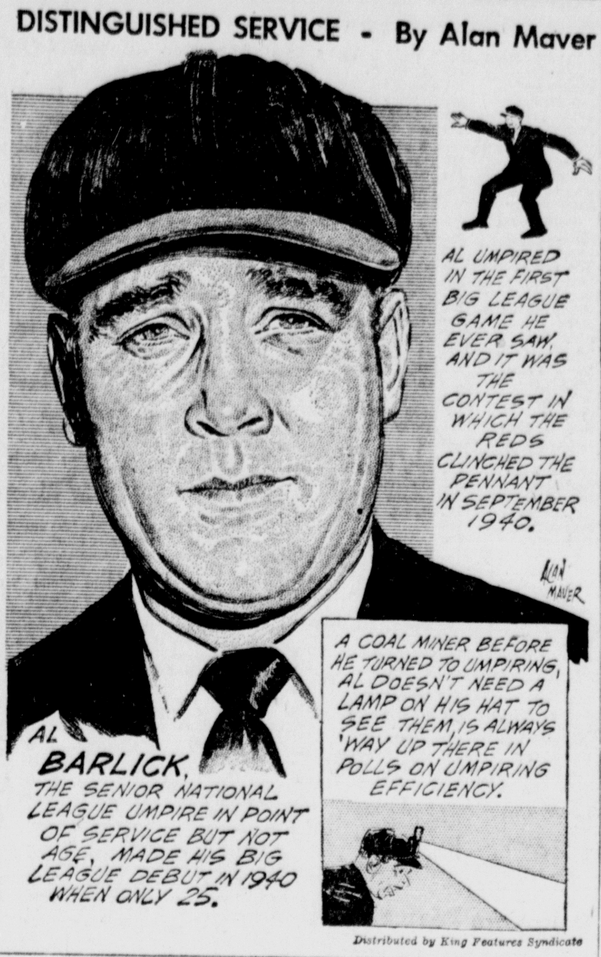
The 5½ furlong July 4 feature, with a gross of $23,850, will net $16,850 to the winner if all 10 go to the post.

Bonjour is owned by Miss Patrice Jacobs and trained by her famous father, Hirsch Jacobs.

Carrying 116—the top weight—he will be ridden by Jockey Bobby Ussery.

Jack I Bender's Brown Boots, victorious in two of his four outings, is the second choice, with Harold J. Rose's Wild Marking, Mrs. John P. Jones' Pep and C. Mahlon Kline's Chillerton also rated high.

Nine members of the 1961 Syracuse football team have signed professional contracts.



Sam Snead Sees Palmer, Nicklaus Top Golfers For Years To Come

Figures Three U.S. Golfers Have Chance To Cop British Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The question of who is to dominate big-time golf for the next decade—Arnold Palmer or Jack Nicklaus—probably will depend on which one burns out the quicker, Sam Snead said Tuesday.

"Both have a lot of drive and a lot of ambition," the all-time swinging stylist from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., added.

"There are tournaments every week. If you skip a tournament, you have exhibitions or some other responsibility. The pressure is terrific.

"How long can a man take this kind of tension, day in and day out? It got to Cary Middlecoff and Ken Venturi. They are still young men who should be winning tournaments. But they are having their problems.

"The tournament golfer today is like the big league pitcher. It may look like he can go to the mound every day, but he can't. He must pitch one day and rest three. Golfers ought to do the same—but they don't."

Snead paused in New York en route to Troon, Scotland, where he will begin play Monday in the British Open along with Palmer, Nicklaus, Gene Littler, Doug Sanders and others.

"If I had to make a pick," Sam said, not extending his neck too far out, "I'd have to say it would be among Palmer, Nicklaus and Littler, with Peter Thomson of Australia, who always plays well in the British Open, having a good chance.

Snead said he figures Palmer will get the upper hand on Nicklaus during the next five years and then Nicklaus — unless he burns himself out—will take over. Palmer is 32, Nicklaus 22.

"Jack is a pretty composed boy," Snead added. "He's strong, a great putter and when he goes out to that first tee he looks like a man going out to paint the back porch."

Game Is Postponed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A scheduled afternoon game between the Los Angeles Angels and the Washington Senators was postponed Tuesday because of rain. It was rescheduled as part of a twi-light-night doubleheader here Aug. 31.

American Girl In Semi-Finals At Wimbledon

Karen Susman Wins, Darlene Hard Loses

By ROBERT MUSEL

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Karen Hantze Susman slowly stroked her way into the women's singles semifinals of the Wimbledon tennis championships Tuesday, but the favorite for the title, America's Darlene Hard, fell victim to an unseeded Czechoslovakian housewife in a stunning upset.

Mrs. Susman, who comes from Chula Vista, Calif., but now lives in San Antonio, Tex., with her student husband, scored a 6-4, 6-4 victory over an irate Renee Schuurman of South Africa, who complained she was rattled by the 19-year-old American's "tactics."

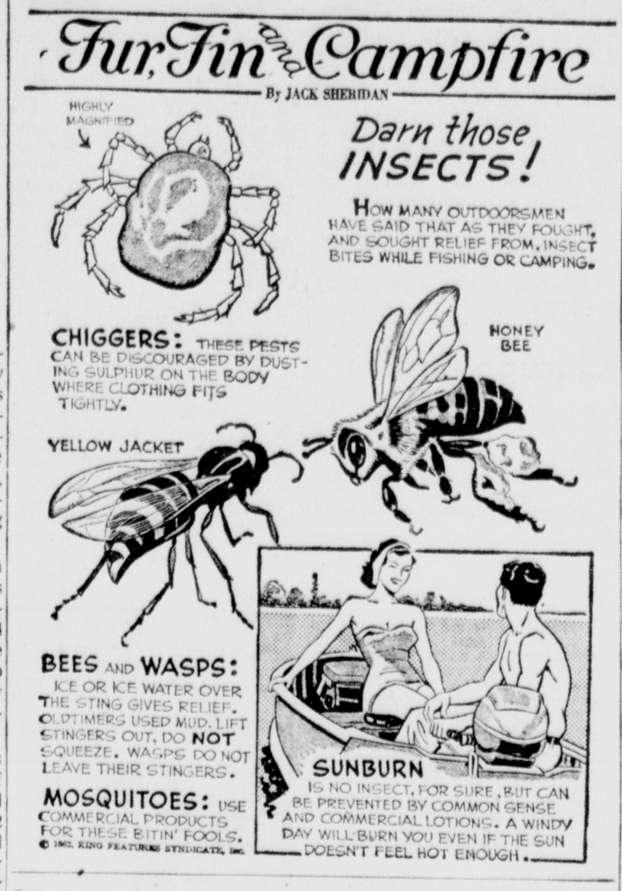
But Mrs. Susman's victory was overshadowed by the defeat of Miss Hard, the top-ranking United States women's player and No. 2 seed here, 6-4, 6-3, by 31-year-old Vera Sukova, who divides her time between her home and her job in a jet plane factory.

This was in its way as startling to the 20,000 fans as last Tuesday's elimination of top - seeded Margaret Smith of Australia by unheralded Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif. Tuesday Miss Moffitt was on the losing end of an upset when she was eliminated by Ann Haydon of England, 6-3, 6-1.

In Thursday's semifinals, Mrs. Susman meets Miss Haydon and Mrs. Sukova plays Maria Bueno of Brazil, the No. 3 seed and 1960 champion who beat Lesley Turner of Australia Tuesday, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

O.D.C. To Practice

The Outdoor Club of the Hot Stove Baseball League will practice at Penn-Avenue Field Thursday at 10 a.m., and Saturday at noon.



36 Americans Drill With Rough Riders

OTTAWA, Ont. (UPI) — Import fullback Gerry Nesbitt, a perennial holdout, was missing again Tuesday when the Ottawa Rough Riders began heavy training for the 1962 Eastern Football Conference season.

More than 60 candidates, including 36 Americans, were on hand for the first of a series of two-a-day workouts called by head coach Frank Clair.

Nesbitt, a 29-year-old University of Arkansas grad used primarily as a linebacker the past three seasons, was scheduled to telephone the Rider head office from his Little Rock, Ark., home later in the day. The import back, who reported late the past two years, was believed far apart from the club on this year's salary and team officials were not optimistic over his chances of reporting.

Postponed Games Are Rescheduled

The three-game slate in the Dapper Dan Little League was washed out yesterday by rain and two of the games have been rescheduled later in the week. The Orioles at Cardinals will meet Saturday at 10 a.m. at Post Field while the Athletics and Senators reset their contest for Sunday at 6 p.m. at Constitution Park.

No date has been set for the playing of the Phillies and Cubs tilt at Constitution Park.

Mount Savage Seeks Tie For Second Place

Old Germans Host Flintstone Today

Mt. Savage's Old Germans have an opportunity to tie Grantsville's Sluggers for second place in the Pen-Mar League when they tackle the Flintstone Farmers in the only holiday game scheduled in the Pen-Mar Baseball League today.

Manager Kenny Johnson's team has won six of its last seven games and a victory today would give the Old Germans a 10-6 record, 2½ games back of Frostburg's first place Merchants (12-3).

Today's game is set for Mt. Savage and is slated to get under way at 2:30 p. m.

Mt. Savage has trounced Flintstone twice by scores of 14-3 and 16-7 and today's contest will be the third of their four-game series. The veteran Ralph Dickel (3-0) holds both decisions over the Farmers.

Flintstone has lost three games in a row and is mired in last place with a 1-13 record. The Farmers' only victory was at the expense of Frostburg, 10-9.

Allen Returns Chargers Contract

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Chuck Allen, who in his rookie season last year won All-American football league honors at linebacker, has returned his signed 1962 contract to the San Diego Chargers, it was announced Tuesday by head coach and general manager Six Gillman.

A University of Washington graduate, Allen was the Chargers' 28th draft choice last year but surprised everyone by winning a starting berth before breaking his ankle in the team's ninth game.

Tom Baird, Former Monarchs' Owner, Taken By Death

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Tom Baird, 77, former owner of the Kansas City Monarchs Negro baseball team, died Monday in his sleep, apparently of a heart ailment.

Baird helped organize the Monarchs in 1919 and in the last 10 years in which he owned the team it sold a total of 38 players, 29 of whom went to major league clubs.

Among those who once played under Baird with the Monarchs was Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to play in the majors and now a member of Baseball's Hall of Fame.

Others included Satchel Paige, Connie Johnson, Curtis Roberts, Gene Baker, Ernie Banks and Elston Howard.

Baird also operated a bowling and recreation center here and was a former business manager of the Harlem All-Stars, a Negro basketball team headed by Goose Tatum.

Arcaro Is Honored At Monmouth Park

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 3 (AP) — Coming from well off the early pace, Henry H. Mundy's favored polyquill was up in time to register a length and a quarter victory in the six furlong feature at Monmouth Park. The victory was the third of the day for Jockey William Zakoor.

Polyquill, solid choice of the crowd of 17,435, paid $5.00, $3.40 and $2.60 as he raced the distance in 1:10 1/5. Bernadotte Stable's Outline was second, two and a half lengths before Five Star Stable's Saint or Sinner.

Circuit Court Orders Resale Of Cadillac

$7,000 Purchase Price Inadequate

The Cadillac Lounge, 25 North Mechanic Street, which was sold for $7,000 on June 23 to Mark Lazarus Sr. at a public sale, is up for resale since an Allegany County Circuit Court judge feels the price paid was inadequate.

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey, who presided at a hearing Monday in connection with the sale of the lounge, filed an opinion yesterday setting aside the sale and ordering the resale.

Mr. Lazarus and any other parties may submit offers to purchase the assets of the business at any time prior to 4 p. m. tomorrow. Offers are to be submitted directly to the receiver, Mrs. Jane Molinari, 135 Hanover Street, or left with the clerk of Circuit Court with a down payment of one-third of the offer.

All such offers are to be in sealed envelopes and are not to be opened by the receiver except in the presence of the court at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Parker Offered $10,000

In the event no offers are received by the receiver or the Court prior to the 4 p. m. deadline, Raymond Parker Sr., who offered $10,000 to the receiver, is directed to immediately apply to the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage Licenses Commissioners for the transfer of the liquor license now held by the Cadillac Lounge Inc. to him.

Mr. Parker, who paid one-third down payment, is not precluded by the court from asking an additional offer for the property.

Clarence Lippel, attorney for Mr. Lazarus, had argued that the public sale was held after having been duly advertised, and that Parker's offer was made privately after the public sale. Judge Cobey, however, ruled that Mr. Lazarus' offer at the public sale should not have been accepted because it was too small an amount.

It was noted in the judge's opinion that according to the appraisal filed in the case, after deducting the value of the combination air conditioning and heating units, the assets of the corporation have a value of $12,883.75.

The court has a duty to see that a sufficient amount is realized from the assets of the corporation to pay all creditors of the same insofar as possible, Judge Cobey said.

Price "Inadequate"

The judge pointed out that the offer of Mr. Lazarus at the public sale is "obviously inadequate when the value of the assets are considered and it is insufficient to protect the creditors."

It is the duty of the receiver to secure as high a price as possible and apparently it has submitted such a figure, the judge wrote.

An equity suit filed in May placing the business in receivership indicated the receiver might operate the establishment for a month so the court could determine whether further operation by the receiver was advisable.

The court decided Monday to close the lounge for the time being since it operated at a slight loss and there was a depletion of stock.

Building To Come Down

This two-story brick building at 116 South Mechanic Street will be demolished to make way for the extension of the vehicle maneuvering area at the rear of the Cumberland Post Office. The General Services Administration has awarded a contract for razing the property to Russell G. Robeson Inc., local contractor. The masonry wall which borders the property, and a large tree in the yard, will be removed, and the utility lines which feed power to the Post Office will be relocated. The entire area will be resurfaced. The government purchased the property from Rose E. Harbaugh, 415 Bedford Street. The Harbaugh family operated a book shop there for a number of years after moving their business from Baltimore Street.

Westernport Budget Is Adopted

$156,000 Package Wins Approval

Mayor Ray L. Wilt and Westernport's town commissioners have adopted a budget of $156,000 for the next fiscal year.

Mayor Wilt read and discussed the items based on the estimated revenue of an 11-month period, and the council voted unanimous approval at a meeting Monday night.

The commissioners authorized the purchase of a refuse packer and truck chassis for garbage collection. The total cost will be $8,500, less excise tax.

The new equipment was demonstrated last week in Westernport and was well received by many who saw it operate.

The hydraulic unit used to compact garbage has a minimum of moving parts for easy maintenance and low cost.

The packer, with a crew of three men, can do the work of six men with two trucks, town officials were told. By compressing refuse, the truck can make longer routes for pickup between trips to the dump.

The Truxmore Pakker, at a cost of $5,200, will be mounted on a G.M.C. truck chassis which will be purchased from the Moran Trucking Company at $3,300, less excise tax.

This will free other town equipment and men for other work and is expected to be less expensive.

On the rear will be painted, "Help Keep Westernport Clean" and "Town of Westernport" on the cab.

William Bever, a member of the Bloomington Water Company, conferred with the council regarding the supply of water from Westernport in the future. The number of water users has increased from 63 to 125 and is expected to be much more, as the town is rapidly expanding.

Mayor Wilt explained that it would be advisable for the community to consider obtaining water supply elsewhere as Westernport may not always be able to supply Bloomington.

Paul Michael, chief of Potomac Fire Company 2, appeared before the council concerning the purchase of additional fire equipment.

Trash Pickup Changed

The Boch Hauling Service will not pick up garbage today because of the holiday. The suburban area affected will be visited only on Saturday this week.

Funds Will Be Used For Research Work

The Navy Bureau of Weapons announced yesterday that Hercules Powder Company has been awarded a contract for $25,916,665 for research and development of a solid propellant rocket fuel at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, Rocket Center, W. Va.

Officials at ABL said the large contract will be used to continue work on the research and development of a solid propellant rocket fuel.

The announcement of the contract award also was announced jointly yesterday by Rep. Daniel Brewster, Democrat from Baltimore County; Rep. Harley O. Staggers and Senators Robert C. Byrd and Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, and Rep. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., Republican of the Sixth District of Maryland.

Since last fall, ABL has received an estimated $50,000,000 for research and development in the missile field.

Up until now, the major project at ABL has been the research and development on Polaris missile motors.

ABL designed and developed the second stage for the Polaris fleet ballistic missile, and now is working on an improved A-3 version of the motor, designed to provide extended range.

June Was Dry, Cool

The observed mean daily flow of the North Branch of the Potomac River at the Wiley Ford gauge during June was 933 cubic feet per second (603 million gallons per day) which is 111 per cent of the 33-year June average.

In his review of the meteorological and runoff conditions in the North Branch River drainage basin at and above Cumberland, A. A. Vickers, engineer in charge, said the daily flow varied between 6,960 cfs (4,498 mgd) on June 14 and 735 cfs (475 mgd) on June 30.

Included in this monthly mean was a equivalent of 1 cfs ,0.6 mgd) released from storage at the Savage River Reservoir, which is a negligible percentage of the flow at Cumberland.

The total percipitation at Cumberland, as reported by the Weather Bureau, was 2.14 inches, 1.54 inches below the June average.

The average daily temperature was 70.1 degrees which is 1.5 degrees below normal.

Plumbers To Meet

Local 489, Plumbers and Steamfitters Union, will meet Friday at 8 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple, according to Charles Cross, business agent.

Staff Meetings Being Held In Street Dept.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Cumberland's new commissioner of streets and public property, is busy this week with a series of conferences with staffers and workers of her department.

The meeting began Monday and will extend throughout the week, as Mrs. Roeder becomes acquainted with the current program of the department.

She is quite familiar with the problems of the department, as she has served as street commissioner for two terms and kept in touch with the department's fiscal problems during the past four years, when she served as finance commissioner.

Shortly after Mrs. Roeder was inaugurated as street commissioner Monday, she met with Ray Valentine, street superintendent, and C. R. Nuzum, city engineer.

Yesterday's rain dampened plans for a tour of the city, so a second staff conference was held in early yesterday by Mrs. Roeder and Mr. Valentine and Mr. Nuzum.

The new street commissioner got an early start yesterday, meeting all workers and staffers of the Street Department at 7 a.m. at the department warehouse.

During the meeting, workers were briefed on the proper procedure for channeling problems after Mrs. Roeder assured the men she wanted to learn their problems and receive their suggestions.

She told the men she hopes to create safe working conditions throughout the department and provide proper equipment for doing needed work.

The men were also told that the present job classification system will provide rewards for jobs well done.

Mrs. Roeder is scheduled to meet Thursday with William F. Miller, foreman of the Sewage Treatment Plant, and at 3 p. m. with workers of the plant.

Health Dept. Clinics Are Well Attended

Some 10,332 persons attended 12 Allegany County Health Department clinics last year, according to a report of department activities prepared by Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, administrative assistant.

Highest attendance was recorded at well baby clinics with a total of 4,979. Other clinic figures show orthopedic, 1,268; multi-purpose, 1,190; maternity, 1,042; hearing, 853; vision, 264; mental health, 248; seizure, 262; plastic, 91; chest, 58; spastic, 56, and pediatric consultation, 21.

Chest X-rays taken at the Health Department totalled 1,791. Immunizations included 16,672 Salk polio; 4,008, DPT and DPPT; 1,336 smallpox vaccinations and 162 others.

During the past year pre-school physical and dental examination clinics were set up through the joint effort of the Health Department and the Board of Education. The county dental society provides a dentist and Dr. Martin M. Rothstein, county health officer, conducts a clinic for this purpose each Wednesday at the Union Street building for children whose parents cannot afford to pay a private physician. Other like clinics are held in areas outside the city with time donated by private physicians. In some small areas, the examinations are conducted at well baby clinics.

Since last July the county health department has been without a full-time deputy state health officer. Last month Dr. Arthur Jones, Garrett County health officer, was named acting deputy health officer here. Prior to that time Dr. W. Ross Cameron, Washington County health officer, had covered the local department. For the past several months Dr. Rothstein, of Frostburg, has been working part time in the capacity of county health officer.

70-Year-Old Hiker Repeats Canal Tour

If you want to know how it feels to trudge the length of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal in the rain, talk to Frank G. Berry, of Flintstone.

Last year, at 69, Mr. Berry, found it a memorable experience to hike along the waterway and began the tour in mid September. Twelve days later he was in Washington.

To mark his 70th year, he decided last month to take another hike along the 185 mile canal.

He left Baltimore Street, near the intake locks of the canal, on June 5, planning to complete the trek in an easy 11 days on the trail.

Ten days of rain "right off" slowed the pace to the point that it took two weeks to reach Williamsport.

Is Sloppy Walking

Although the veteran hiker is well equipped for any weather, he found it pretty wet on the towpath, reporting water would fly up out of his shoes at each step.

Sleeping was not such a problem, as Mr. Berry carries, in his 40-pound pack, a sleeping bag and a rain sheet.

He reports that as usual, folks along the canal were kind, saying Ray Larkin, at Paw Paw, and William Robinson, at Big Spring, insisted that he stay overnight at their homes.

It was the same story at Shepherdstown, where Henry Clay Bergen, told him "You are not going to leave" in such weather.

Mr. Berry said he had pleasant visits at Antietam and at Harpers Ferry, from where it took only a pleasant 3½ days to reach Washington last Thursday.

Grew Beard Again

The former papermaker again grew a beard this year for greater comfort on the trail.

He plans later this year, to make a 130-mile trip in this area, leaving his summer home in Flintstone early in August for the visits to Chaneysville, Bedford, Hyndman and Cumberland before trudging the modern highway to his home in Flintstone.

He plans to go into the mountains near Flintstone for the next few weeks to prepare for the fall hikes, although he had no bad effects from the wet and cold hike.

Next year, Mr. Berry plans to walk the length of the Skyline Drive in Virginia, but will take a bus to Front Royal, Va., to begin the trek.

The court has a duty to see that a sufficient amount is realized from the assets of the corporation to pay all creditors of the same insofar as possible, Judge Cobey said.

Price "Inadequate"

The judge pointed out that the offer of Mr. Lazarus at the public sale is "obviously inadequate when the value of the assets are considered and it is insufficient to protect the creditors."

It is the duty of the receiver to secure as high a price as possible and apparently it has submitted such a figure, the judge wrote.

An equity suit filed in May placing the business in receivership indicated the receiver might operate the establishment for a month so the court could determine whether further operation by the receiver was advisable.

The court decided Monday to close the lounge for the time being since it operated at a slight loss and there was a depletion of stock.

The masonry wall which borders the property, and a large tree in the yard, will be removed, and the utility lines which feed power to the Post Office will be relocated. The entire area will be resurfaced. The government purchased the property from Rose E. Harbaugh, 415 Bedford Street. The Harbaugh family operated a book shop there for a number of years after moving their business from Baltimore Street.

Staff Meetings Being Held In Street Dept.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Cumberland's new commissioner of streets and public property, is busy this week with a series of conferences with staffers and workers of her department.

The meeting began Monday and will extend throughout the week, as Mrs. Roeder becomes acquainted with the current program of the department.

She is quite familiar with the problems of the department, as she has served as street commissioner for two terms and kept in touch with the department's fiscal problems during the past four years, when she served as finance commissioner.

Shortly after Mrs. Roeder was inaugurated as street commissioner Monday, she met with Ray Valentine, street superintendent, and C. R. Nuzum, city engineer.

Yesterday's rain dampened plans for a tour of the city, so a second staff conference was held in early yesterday by Mrs. Roeder and Mr. Valentine and Mr. Nuzum.

The new street commissioner got an early start yesterday, meeting all workers and staffers of the Street Department at 7 a.m. at the department warehouse.

During the meeting, workers were briefed on the proper procedure for channeling problems after Mrs. Roeder assured the men she wanted to learn their problems and receive their suggestions.

She told the men she hopes to create safe working conditions throughout the department and provide proper equipment for doing needed work.

The men were also told that the present job classification system will provide rewards for jobs well done.

Mrs. Roeder is scheduled to meet Thursday with William F. Miller, foreman of the Sewage Treatment Plant, and at 3 p. m. with workers of the plant.

Westernport Budget Is Adopted

$156,000 Package Wins Approval

Mayor Ray L. Wilt and Westernport's town commissioners have adopted a budget of $156,000 for the next fiscal year.

Mayor Wilt read and discussed the items based on the estimated revenue of an 11-month period, and the council voted unanimous approval at a meeting Monday night.

The commissioners authorized the purchase of a refuse packer and truck chassis for garbage collection. The total cost will be $8,500, less excise tax.

The new equipment was demonstrated last week in Westernport and was well received by many who saw it operate.

The hydraulic unit used to compact garbage has a minimum of moving parts for easy maintenance and low cost.

The packer, with a crew of three men, can do the work of six men with two trucks, town officials were told. By compressing refuse, the truck can make longer routes for pickup between trips to the dump.

The Truxmore Pakker, at a cost of $5,200, will be mounted on a G.M.C. truck chassis which will be purchased from the Moran Trucking Company at $3,300, less excise tax.

This will free other town equipment and men for other work and is expected to be less expensive.

On the rear will be painted, "Help Keep Westernport Clean" and "Town of Westernport" on the cab.

William Bever, a member of the Bloomington Water Company, conferred with the council regarding the supply of water from Westernport in the future. The number of water users has increased from 63 to 125 and is expected to be much more, as the town is rapidly expanding.

Mayor Wilt explained that it would be advisable for the community to consider obtaining water supply elsewhere as Westernport may not always be able to supply Bloomington.

Paul Michael, chief of Potomac Fire Company 2, appeared before the council concerning the purchase of additional fire equipment.

Trash Pickup Changed

The Boch Hauling Service will not pick up garbage today because of the holiday. The suburban area affected will be visited only on Saturday this week.

70-Year-Old Hiker Repeats Canal Tour

If you want to know how it feels to trudge the length of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal in the rain, talk to Frank G. Berry, of Flintstone.

Last year, at 69, Mr. Berry, found it a memorable experience to hike along the waterway and began the tour in mid September. Twelve days later he was in Washington.

To mark his 70th year, he decided last month to take another hike along the 185 mile canal.

He left Baltimore Street, near the intake locks of the canal, on June 5, planning to complete the trek in an easy 11 days on the trail.

Ten days of rain "right off" slowed the pace to the point that it took two weeks to reach Williamsport.

Is Sloppy Walking

Although the veteran hiker is well equipped for any weather, he found it pretty wet on the towpath, reporting water would fly up out of his shoes at each step.

Sleeping was not such a problem, as Mr. Berry carries, in his 40-pound pack, a sleeping bag and a rain sheet.

He reports that as usual, folks along the canal were kind, saying Ray Larkin at Paw Paw, and William Robinson, at Big Spring, insisted that he stay overnight at their homes.

It was the same story at Shepherdstown, where Henry Clay Bergen, told him "You are not going to leave" in such weather.

Mr. Berry said he had pleasant visits at Antietam and at Harpers Ferry, from where it took only a pleasant 3½ days to reach Washington last Thursday.

Grew Beard Again

The former papermaker again grew a beard this year for greater comfort on the trail.

He plans later this year, to make a 130-mile trip in this area, leaving his summer home in Flintstone early in August for the visits to Chaneysville, Bedford, Hyndman and Cumberland before trudging the modern highway to his home in Flintstone.

He plans to go into the mountains near Flintstone for the next few weeks to prepare for the fall hikes, although he had no bad effects from the wet and cold hike.

Next year, Mr. Berry plans to walk the length of the Skyline Drive in Virginia, but will take a bus to Front Royal, Va., to begin the trek.
